"BRIDGIE" WEBBER, SQUEALER, WITHHOLDS NAME OF ASSAILANT

One of the Alleged Gamblers Who Squealed at the Rosenthal Trial, Is Stabbed in the Back Early Saturday

TRIED TO COVER HIS IDENTITY FROM POLICE

Had Just Left a Midnight Engagement With Sam Paul, Another Gambler Who Talked of "Croaking" Rosenthal

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—"Bridgie" Webber, one of the four gamblers who testified against Police Lieutenant Becker and the gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, another gambler, was stabbed in the shoulder early this morning under circumstances which he seemed loathe to explain.

He was in the St. Vincents hospital today suffering some pain and weak from the loss of blood but his wound will have no serious result unless blood poisoning sets in. Although branded by some of his former associates in the underworld as a "squealer" in the Rosenthal case, the little "informer" closed up tight when detectives tried to pry from him at the hospital this morning the story of the attack upon him.

At first Webber tried to hide even his own identity and the fact that he had been wounded.

The stabbing occurred on East Eighth street. Webber tried to walk away on the arm of a friend, hiding the wound, but on Broadway, in front of Grace church, he sank exhausted and admitted to a policeman that he had been stabbed. His identity was discovered by Detective Harvey, who worked on the Rosenthal case.

Webber at first did not account for the stabbing at all. Then he said a "dago boy ran out of the house behind him and plunged a pen knife into his shoulder.

Further questioning indicated that seriously. Webber finally declared:

"I don't know who stabbed me and I don't want to know."

Detectives learned that Webber had kept a midnight engagement with Sam Paul, another gambler, who talked of "croaking" Rosenthal, in a lonely hash kept a small restaurant near Eighth street. It appeared that Webber had been attacked shortly after concluding his engagement with Paul.

It will be eleven months next Monday since the murder of Herman Rosenthal occurred. Although Webber was arrested in the 'round-up of gamblers that followed and was charged with implication in the murder he never was tried. With "Bald" Jack Rose and others he turned state's evidence and helped to send former Police Lieutenant Becker and the four gunmen to Sing Sing, where they are under death sentence.

If the attack upon Webber is an act of revenge for his part in the Becker-Rosenthal case, it is the first instance of any attack on the witnesses.

The police up to an early hour today had made no arrest in connection with the stabbing.

EX-MINISTER TO CHINA WITNESS AT TRUST TRIAL

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 14.—William J. Calhoun, former United States minister to China, appeared today as a witness for the defense at the International Harvester company anti-trust suit hearing. He was questioned about an alleged lobby by means of which the government charges, an investigation of the harvester company by the Kansas legislature was prevented in 1903.

Mr. Calhoun said the harvester company had employed an attorney in Topeka to look after its interests in Kansas while legislation hostile to it was pending.

"This attorney—W. H. Rossington, now dead—was told," said Mr. Calhoun, "that no matter how harmful the legislation proposed might be, nothing under any circumstances was to be paid the men who were behind the framing of the bills."

Charles Blood Smith, a member of the Topeka law firm to which Rossington belonged, denied his firm had done any lobbying for the harvester company. On cross-examination Mr. Smith admitted that the harvester company had paid Rossington $8,545 for services during February and March, 1903.

MINE PROBERS GOING AFTER "HIGHER-UPS" IN W. VA. COAL FIELDS

Investigating Committee Goes After Land Owners on Paint and Cabin Creeks, and Officers of Companies

FINANCIAL BASIS OF OPERATIONS SOUGHT

Committee Hopes to Conclude Testimony of Miners and Hear From Operators at Beginning of Next Week

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 14.—The United States senate sub-committee, investigating the coal strike situation, today called on the men and women who lived on Paint and Cabin creeks for their stories of the struggle. The committee continued its inquiry into the general causes and conditions which led up to the strike.

A phase of the mine strike which has not yet been touched upon will be developed by Senator Kenyon. He served notice on the attorneys for the mine operators that he desired to secure records of the ownership of the land on Paint and Cabin creeks, the capitalization and ownership of stock in the various coal operations, and the names of officers of the companies which operate in the strike zone.

Attorney Knight, for the operators, promised to call before the committee on Monday the various officers of the companies having the information which Senator Kenyon desired, and said that condensed statements of the financial organization of the various companies would be produced.

Senator Kenyon has said that he believed that in order to arrive at a right conclusion as to the causes of "war conditions" in the strike zone, it will be necessary for the committee to have evidence of the financial basis upon which the mines are operated.

Senator Kenyon has taken a deep interest in the investigation and his visit to the mine territory Thursday whetted his desire for information. He said today that if he could possibly find time after the committee concluded its hearings here, he intended to spend several days in the strike zone making a personal examination of how the miners live and work.

The committee hoped to be able to conclude today the examination of witnesses called by the miners in relation to conditions on Paint and Cabin creeks and to proceed on Monday with the presentation of evidence to be introduced by the operators.

C. O. Honaker, a conductor on the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad was today's first witness. He said that prior to April 30, 1913, mine guards in Cabin Creek rode on trains on passes. These guards, he said, were armed. Mr. Honaker said his train had been stoned three times during the strike.

Former Governor Glasscock was recalled to the stand to be cross-examined by counsel for the operators.

Under cross-examination, Governor Glasscock told of calling a "state-wide peace conference" which was attended by some 400 to 500 "representative citizens" from all over the state.

"Was the attitude of the representative citizens toward the miners at that meeting?" asked Mr. Belcher.

"I thought decidedly otherwise," said the governor.

W. J. Abbott, a delivery wagon driver for an "outside store" in the strike zone, testified that mine guards prevented him from delivering supplies.

J. H. Pike, of Holly Grove, said that mine guards shot the lock off his door.

"What did you do when the bullets began to fly?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"Just stood and looked at them," said the miner.

"SEPTEMBER MORN" IN LOCAL ART STORE SHOCKS CITY POLICE

Assistant Chief Jett Notifies Cole Book Company That Reproductions of Famous Painting Must Be Withdrawn

MOVING PICTURE CENSOR UPHOLDS THE CHIEF

Manager of Book Company Declares He Will Make Fight in Courts—What Local Critics Think of the Picture

The fate of September Morn, most beautiful and daring of all modern paintings, is hanging on the scales of Atlanta popularity of prohibition.

Shall she continue to sway like a sea nymph in the window of Cole's book store, or will the iron hand of the law compel the lady to conceal her loveliness within doors?

It is up to Assistant Chief Jett, to decide the question, and the chief after openly acknowledging that his views on art are rather rusty, has left it to certain Atlanta critics who condemn the painting.

The question hinges on the simple issue as to whether September Morn is a bold, disgraceful picture or a master-piece of painting from the nude? There is no doubt but that it is beautiful, but the chief doesn't know whether those who view the lady do so with the mind of the artist.

If Atlanta's high-browns agree that September Morn is artistic and not risque she shall remain, if not—well the chief says that a certain city ordinance will compel her withdrawal from the public gaze.

In the words of the devil in Kipling's famous poem, "It's pretty, but is it art?"

Of course, everybody knows who September Morn is. Paul Chabas painted her and when she was exhibited in the Paris Salon all honors were showered on her and her creator.

Art is art in Paris, but it's something else in Chicago. Everybody will remember when September Morn was exhibited in the Windy City and was allowed to stay there only after the police had made a bitter fight in the courts to have the picture removed. Another campaign ensued, the sweet young lady was made in New York. She was the talk of the town. No question of the day had a thing on September Morn when it came to notoriety.

HERE FOR A WEEK.

It has been almost a week since September Morn arrived in Atlanta. For days and days the big window at Cole's book store on Whitehall street has been overflowing with September Morns, beautiful reproductions exactly the same those which set Chicago in a turmoil.

Guilty looking males stopped and stared all alone. Stealthily the women followed suit.

It was the vigilant eye of Policeman Shaw who first brought the painting to the official attention.

Early Saturday morning Officer Shaw stole with stealthy steps down Whitehall street, his eagle eye well peeled for the murderer of Mary Phagan.

The well-known sleuth slid silently in front of Cole's book store, glanced coldly to the right, and turned to stone in his tracks.

Spread out before his petrified gaze was a ravishing exhibition. Painting after painting flooded the window, all exactly alike and all incomparably beautiful. The officer fixed his eyes on one and stared his fill.

There she was, September Morn, a nude wistful figure of girlishness, standing knee-deep in the wash of a cold blue sea. A misty ripple of sapphire waves swept on on either side. The figure of the girl seemed almost to shiver in the icy chill of an autumn sunrise.

Who looked must give admiration. Even though he condemned, a thrill of pity shot through his heart. The girl must be cold standing there in the morning breeze.

But officers have their duty. Policeman Shaw swung his club, took a farewell glance at the nude wonder, and set out for the police station. Assistant Chief Jett was notified, and returned to Cole's book store.

The chief planted himself firmly opposite the window and hammered the picture. He frowned, he smiled, his mouth twitched with laughter, his brows contracted, he nodded his head, he shook it.

Behind the two officers a crowd collected, out came the manager of the store, a discussion ensued.

The chief cocked his head on one side and eyed September Morn with an appraising gaze.

"Good looking dame all right," commented the chief. "How long's she been here?"

"About a week," said the manager.

WILSON WRITES SPECIAL MESSAGE ON CURRENCY

President Is Expected to Present Message to Congress About June 23 or 24

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Wilson still wants currency legislation enacted at the present session of congress and will bend every effort to accomplish it. The doubt raised by utterances of senators close to the administration that they were opposed to currency reform during the present session was cleared when it became known that the president planned to write his currency message to congress today. It will be presented about June 23 or 24.

It also was announced today that Secretary McAdoo and Chairmen Owen and Glass, of the senate and house banking and currency committees, respectively, had reached an agreement on the main features of the currency bill they have been drafting for two months.

The president, it is understood, however, will not go into detail in his message, preferring to back the Owen-Glass bill as an expression of his ideas. His argument will be along the lines of his letter recently to Senator Tillman, in which he declared that in loyalty to the country, currency legislation was necessary during the present session of congress, "so that any attempt to create artificial disturbances after the tariff shall have become law may be offset by a free system of credit which will make it possible for men, big and little, to take care of themselves in business."

M'REYNOLDS SUSPICIOUS OF NEW PACIFIC PLAN

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Attorney General McReynolds returned to Washington today and immediately began considering the proposal of the Union Pacific railroad made to the United States court at St. Paul to exchange $38,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock for the Pennsylvania railroad's holdings of Baltimore and Ohio.

Such an arrangement, incidental to the dissolution of the Union Pacific merger, the attorney general said, did not on the surface present a situation to which the government could object, but he was studying the inter-relation of the roads and seeking advice to determine whether the transfer could be regarded as obnoxious.

With the present holdings of Union Pacific in Baltimore and Ohio the proposed transfer would give to the Union Pacific 38.2 per cent of the entire outstanding stock of Baltimore and Ohio, according to the attorney general's advices.

By acquiring $38,000,000 of Southern Pacific stocks the Pennsylvania would control 14 per cent of the entire outstanding stock of the Southern Pacific. So far, the attorney general has not found any indication that competition would be suppressed.

SOLICITOR H. M. DORSEY LEAVES FOR NEW YORK

Declares Visit Has Nothing to Do With Phagan Case, Which Is Complete

Hugh M. Dorsey, ocollictor general of the Atlanta circuit, left Atlanta for New York and Atlantic City on Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock.

Mr. Dorsey states that he will be away from the city for a week, and is going simply to get a needed rest and vacation from the duties of his office.

He denies that his visit to New York has anything to with the case against Leo M. Frank, who is charged with the murder of Mary Phagan. It was rumored that Mr. Dorsey would make a personal investigation of the past life of the accused man, but the solicitor states that this rumor is without any foundation.

The duties of the solicitor's office are naturally arduous, and Mr. Dorsey almost since the murder of Mary Phagan, has had charge of the active investigation of the case as well as his routine work, and as a result is greatly in need of a rest.

Mr. Dorsey's absence from the city for a week is not expected to delay the trial of Frank.

While he has made no announcement, it has been generally conceded that the official will set the Frank trial for June 30, and it will then depend on the defense as to whether or not a postponement of the case is asked.

For the reason that the court generally do not sit during the months of July and August, it is said to be extremely unlikely that Frank will actually come to trial on June 30, as a postponement then will probably mean that the case will not be reached until September.

The fact that the solicitor is willing to leave the city at this time is taken by those familiar with the Phagan case as an indication that at last the investigation is complete, and that all sides are simply waiting for the hour of trial to come.

LOCKER CLUB OFFICERS ARE FOUND NOT GUILTY

Last of Grand Jury's Probe of Clubs Heard in City Court

The last of the locker club investigation, prosecuted by the grand jury a year ago, was heard in city criminal court Saturday when officers of the Metropolitan, Bohannon and Theatrical clubs were found not guilty of violation of the prohibition law.

This action winds up the cases made against the officers of some twelve clubs as a result of an investigation authorized by T. K. Glenn, then foreman of the grand jury.

H. R. Smith and Tom Webb, of the Theatrical club; John Faith and J. B. Everett, of the Metropolitan, and J. S. Andrews ,of the Beavers, were the last to be tried. Several cases were disposed of in another court and cases against officers of the Southern, Georgia Athletic, and Knights of the Mystic Ark clubs were dismissed because the organizations had quit business. The indictment against the Georgia Athletic club was quashed in city court Saturday.

G. H. Bohannon, a motorman on the College Park line, on whose information the indictments were returned a year ago, was the chief witness for the prosecution. He said that he had gone to the three clubs with a private detective named Eubanks, who was working on the case for the jury. Eubanks, he asserted, was a member of the clubs.

Bohannon told the jury that Eubanks went to the cashier in each instance and bought some service checks and then they went to a table and drank beer. He couldn't swear whether or not it was lager or near-beer, being unacquainted with the taste of beer. Eubanks, he said, did order whisky, but as Bohannon did not drink whisky he could not say under oath whether Eubanks really got whisky.

Eubanks, it is understood, left Atlanta shortly after the locker club investigation and has not been located since.

UNDERPASS CLOSING DEPENDS ON CONSENT OF W. & A. RAILROAD

Important Forsyth Street Improvement Put Up to Major McCollum by Committee of Council and Citizens

ANSWER OF RAILROAD IS EXPECTED SHORTLY

Claimed Roadway Ceded by Central of Georgia Not Sufficient and W. & A. Wants Special Incline Built

A two-hour conference Saturday morning on the proposed closing of the underpasses in the Forsyth street bridge narrowed the proposition down to the point where it can be accomplished if the Western and Atlantic railroad will consent, but cannot be accomplished if this railroad refuses.

Two railroads are affected by the proposition—the Western and Atlantic and the Central of Georgia. The latter gave its consent at a conference several days ago. The proposition is now up to the Western and Atlantic.

The conference was between a joint committee of council members and citizens on the one hand, representing the city in its desire to close the underpass, and on the other hand Major J. L. McCollum, superintendent of the Western and Atlantic, together with the road's chief engineer, Mr. McDonald.

THE CITY'S PROPOSITION.

As finally put up to the Western and Atlantic by vote of the committee, the proposition is as follows:

The city of Atlanta asks and urges the Western and Atlantic to consent to the closing of the underpasses, and as a substitute for the underpasses, the city offers the use of the roadway across the Central of Georgia railroad's tracks, which this road will give for an indefinite time subject to termination on twelve months' notice; as a protection to the Western and Atlantic against such termination, the city of Atlanta guarantees either to reopen the underpasses or else to provide some other means of ingress and egress to the Western and Atlantic tracks that will be equally as satisfactory.

Major McCollum and Mr. McDonald promised the committee to submit this proposition to the head officials of the Western and Atlantic, and they expected to be able to give an answer to the committee in a short time.

MAJOR MCCOLLUM'S ATTITUDE.

As indicated by his statements to the committee, Major McCollum is not only willing but anxious for the underpasses to be closed, provided a practicable entrance and exit to the Western and Atlantic tracks can be provided.

But he claimed to be unable to see how this can be done. Of the several schemes submitted by Captain Clayton, the city chief of construction, he favored most this scheme of constructing an incline from the middle of the bridge down to the tracks.

He insisted, however, that this incline should be built before the underpasses are closed, claiming that the Central of Georgia's roadway will by no means be an adequate or satisfactory means of getting in and out of the Western and Atlantic tracks.

Inasmuch as Major McCollum maintained this position so positively and uncompromisingly, it, therefore, seems likely that the head officials of the Western and Atlantic will take the same position. In other words, that they probably will agree to the closing of the underpasses provided the city will first construct the incline down to their tracks from the middle of the bridge.

FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES.

This incline will cost $37,600, according to Captain Clayton's estimates, and the city has no such amount of money available at the present time to spend for anything, owing to the crematory having literally used up the last dollar of the city's 1913 surplus.

Hence the committee urged Major McCollum to consent to the use of the Central of Georgia's roadway, but he

ARE BOOK LOBBYISTS IN EXISTENCE HERE?

Let State Legislature Take Up School Book Question, Writes Representative McCrory

Ellaville, Ga., June 13, 1913.

Atlanta Journal:

Your kindness in writing up the school book business in Georgia is appreciated by every loyal citizen of Georgia.

The situation is much worse than appears at first glance. Now there can be no sensible reason advanced why we should not have as cheap school books as any people on earth. Georgia has supported a college at Athens for many years and furnished to it a free library. Surely by this time some one has been educated sufficiently to write a few school books. If not we had better quit right now. If we have one man or woman in Georgia sufficiently educated to edit a primer let it be invited and published by competitive bids and furnished to the school children of Georgia at cost.

MONTAIGNE'S METHOD.

Ontario had one man, the minister of education, who quit making fourth of July and commencement speeches for one year and edited the primer and four readers and an arithmetic and had them published by competitive bids with the following results:

For each $100.00 spent in Atlanta for primers, Ontario buys the same number for $6.00. Just a slight difference of $84.00 that goes down the maw of the book companies.

For each $100.00 spent in Fulton county for the first readers, the same number of better ones can be bought in Ontario for $20.00. Just another gulp of the book companies and $70.00 of our money goes down.

For each $100.00 spent by the poor people in Georgia for arithmetics, Ontario buys the same number and much better ones for $25.00. Just another $75.00 gone the same way.

Remember that the above is the retail price in Ontario. If wholesale, then the publishers sell at 20 per cent discount.

MONTAIGNE A LA OSLER.

I learn a lobby is already formed in Atlanta to prevent any legislation changing the way of selling and buying school books in Georgia. I wonder if that lobby represents the poor of Georgia trying to supply books so as to try and fit their offspring for the duties of life.

Georgia has been a juicy lemon and the above prices show she has been squeezed mighty well often. Of course the book people will not voluntarily turn this lemon over to Georgia. Eight hundred thousand school children appeal to the manhood of Georgia to choke these people off. An investigating committee in Ontario revealed the fact that every bidder for the sale of school books was in a trust, and it did not make any difference to whom was awarded the contract for books, that all of the companies got a rake off on the profits.

Suppose we have a text book investigating committee appointed at the next session of the legislature.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) C. H. McCRORY.

More Answers Here For McCrory Problem

The following answers to the "McCrory school book problem" were received by The Journal Saturday:

G. E. Flynn, Abbeville, S. C., found the answer $457,428.57 1-7. Mrs. A. C. Born, Norcross, Ga., figured it $457,428.57 even. A. A. Pedder, of Albany, Ga., solved the problem with the same answer as Mr. Flynn, of Abbeville. The answer of $457,428.57 1-7 was sent by H. L. Hill, of Sasser, Ga.

C. Reb Martin worked the problem by "simple proportion," and found the answer to be $837,142.6-7, and declared that Georgia is losing $662,857 in her school book deal.

DORSEY FAVORS REVISION OF STATE'S PENAL SYSTEM

Fulton Solicitor Declares in Favor of Proposed Legislative Commission

Solicitor General Hugh M. Dorsey, of the Fulton county superior court, has given out an interview endorsing the proposition to appoint a legislative committee to make thorough investigation of the penal system and criminal court procedure in Georgia, with a view to improving both, increasing their efficiency, and bringing them thoroughly up to date.

The specific proposal which Mr. Dorsey endorses is that recently outlined by Judge T. E. Patterson, of the state prison board, and which has been commended by leading legislators and superior court judges throughout the state. While approaching the situation from a different point of view from Judge Patterson, Mr. Dorsey is convinced that the revision of the state's criminal laws and the improvement of its penal laws should come together, and that the one will aid the other.

As solicitor general, Mr. Dorsey is brought constantly in contact with many difficulties under the Georgia law of convincing a man before a jury, even when his guilt is certain.

"If the penal system were revised along practical and thoroughly conservative lines, yet in such a way that it would make for the moral and physical betterment of convicts, I believe our juries would not only be more willing to convict in proper cases, but would also be willing to give the criminal courts wider authority," says he.

Mr. Dorsey is convinced that the Georgia criminal laws give the defendant an unreasonable advantage, and sometimes protect the guilty unduly. He grants, of course, that the defendant should be presumed innocent until guilt is proven, but he insists that rules of evidence and procedure should leave the prosecution free of any handicap. Mr. Dorsey believes also that the judge should have the legal right to suspend sentences.

NEGROES PLAN FOR THEIR ANNUAL MUSIC FESTIVAL

Progrm for July 3 and 4 to Include Talented Members of Race

Interest is manifest among the colored people over the forthcoming annual music festival to be held at the auditorium July 3 and 4. Final arrangements have been made with all the singers who will take part in the celebration. It will be in commemoration of the semi-centennial of the emancipation of the colored race in the United States.

Some of the best talent afforded by the race throughout the country has been chosen. Anita Patti Brown, who has proved so popular in the past in the festivals here, will sing again this year. A new singer, one never before heard in Atlanta, will be Roland B. Hayes, of Boston. The Fisk Jubilee singers have been secured again this year. J. W. Work, of Nashville, who will have charge of the two choruses, has begun the work of rehearsing, which takes place at the First Congregational church, colored, Monday, Tuesday and Friday nights.

The first night of the festival will be devoted to a pageant play of the progress of the race, "Up to Freedom," which proved so popular last year. Ten original scenes made expressly for this play will be shown, illustrating the progress of the race from the shores of Africa to the present. The second night will be given over to a grand concert, in which all the stars of the festival will take part. There will probably be a mammoth concert in the afternoon of the Fourth of July composed entirely of negro melodies.

This is the only annual music festival conducted by negroes in the world, and many of the best people of the race are expected from all over Georgia and the surrounding states. There will be reduced rates on all railways entering the city. Last year a large number of white citizens attended the festival, and this year 10,000 seats will be reserved for them. The proceeds of the entertainment go entirely for the support of the institutional work done by the First Congregational church, which among other things operates a home for colored working girls where all the facilities are provided for 15 cents a day.

COTTON SEED MEN ARE READY FOR BIG MEET

Preparations are being perfected rapidly for the special train which is to carry the members of the Inter-State Cotton Seed Crushers' association who live in Georgia to the annual convention of that organization which meets in Chicago on June 23, 24 and 25. The members of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia, who make up this party will leave Atlanta on Saturday, June 21, and arrive in the Windy city on Sunday preceding the opening of the convention. The Georgia delegation will be joined, en route, by large delegations from Alabama and the Carolinas.

At the forthcoming meeting the legislative committee will make a report to the convention with reference to its appearance before the various congressional committees in charge of revising the tariff law so that the duty on cameral hair from Europe will be revised. Heretofore, it has been taxed over 100 per cent ad valorem duty, and this has been a great tax on the cotton oil industry. It has been recommended for entire removal.

The rules committee will meet in Chicago on Saturday, June 21. Former President E. P. McBurney, of the Cotton Seed Crushers' association of Georgia, will represent the Georgia crushers at this gathering.

ALL STATE RATE CASES TO COME DOWN MONDAY

U. S. Supreme Court Puts Finishing Touches on Decisions to Be Read Monday

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Finishing touches to the supreme court's decision in the railroad rate cases from Missouri, Arkansas, Kentucky, Oregon and West Virginia are believed to have been added today in secret conference. The decisions, with those in the other forty-nine cases before the court, are expected to be announced Monday.

Justice Hughes is picked by most lawyers familiar with the court procedure as certain to announce the conclusion of the court, as he did in the Minnesota rate cases. In doing so he will review the opinion of Judge Smith McPherson, of the western Missouri circuit court.

By a strange coincidence, Judge McPherson in that opinion commented upon "moral courage" of Justice Hughes, then governor of New York, for vetoing a 2-cent passenger bill. Judge McPherson held the Missouri maximum freight rates and the 2-cent passenger law confiscatory and enjoined their enforcement.

The relations of a governor to proposed legislation and those of a court to legislation consummated," held Judge McPherson, "are entirely different."

The apportionment of value and expenses of the railroads on the revenue basis as done in the Missouri cases by Judge McPherson, was disapproved in the Minnesota cases. Those errors, Justice Hughes said, were not sufficient to change a return of 3.5 per cent into a remunerative rate.

In the Missouri cases, Judge McPherson held that the return from the freight rates would result in a deficit on the Hannibal and St. Louis and the Burlington, and a return not exceeding 2 per cent on the other sixteen roads concerned.

The return from the two-cent passenger law, according to the judge, would show no profit on the Rock Island, St. Louis and Hannibal, Kansas City, Clinton and Springfield, and the Great Western; a profit of from 3 to 4 per cent on the St. Louis and San Francisco; 4 and 5 per cent on the Santa Fe; a fraction over 2 per cent on the Kansas City Southern and between 3 and 4 per cent on the Burlington.

In view of that finding, many believe the supreme court will first consider whether errors in valuation and apportionment have been sufficient in the Missouri cases to convert a deficit or low return into a reasonable return. Many think the court may find the laws valid as to certain roads, and invalid as to others.

Several points not considered in the Minnesota rate cases are expected to be passed upon, either in the Missouri or the Arkansas rate cases. Among them is the question as to what return the roads are entitled on their property. In Missouri the court considered 6 per cent a reasonable return. In the Arkansas cases Judge Trieber declared the ratings should be 6 per cent and in addition an allowance of 1 1-2 per cent should be made as a surplus for "clean" years.

On that basis, he held the Arkansas maximum freight and two cent passenger rates confiscatory, because he figured the St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern would make a net profit of only three-quarters per cent and the St. Louis Southeastern 2.6 per cent.

OKLAHOMA MOB RIDDLES NEGRO WITH BULLETS

1,000 Persons Hang Negro to Tree, Riddle Body, Pour on Oil and Use Torch

(By Associated Press.)

ANADARKO, Okla., June 14.—Bennie Simmons, negro, eighteen, was taken from the county jail here early today by a mob composed of nearly 1,000 persons, hanged to a tree, the body saturated with oil, riddled with bullets and then burned.

Simmons was charged with the murder of a young white girl. She was returning on horseback from Coger, Okla., to her home in the country, when she was pulled from the horse and assaulted. Two hours later her parents found her dead body in a clump of bushes near the road, the throat cut from ear to ear.

Simmons, when arrested had a bloody knife in his posseston and his clothing was covered with blood. At that time he denied the crime.

When taken from the old government prison, from which he had been taken early today by the sheriff, Simmons begged piteously for his life. His pleadings were met with jeers.

SUGGESTIONS MADE FOR CANAL MEMORIAL

Three suggestions from people living in Marietta, Ga., were received Saturday for the Panama canal memorial.

Mrs. John Woodfin Barnhill suggested a large statue of liberty, wearing a crown with the inscription "Universal Peace" across it, and the insignia of all nations in the figure's clasped hands.

Virgil Oliver Harden sent the suggestion that Uncle Sam be portrayed enlightening the world, and with the envoys of every nation kneeling in gratitude.

Matthews Talbot-Barnhill suggested a statue of John Bull clasping hands with Uncle Sam.

EUROPEAN INVASION IS PLAN OF OLD GUARD

Enthusiastic Over Trip East, They Propose to "Do" the Continent Next Summer

So delighted were the members of the old Guard of the Gate City Guard with the reception received on their recent trip to the north that already plans to make a similar trip to Europe next summer are being discussed.

The idea is to organize a company of several hundred representative Atlantians, and make a triumphal march through Europe, taking in the big capitals of the old country. Many members of the Old Guard, who have just returned from Boston, are enthusiastic on the subject, but admit there is plenty of time to talk over the matter. They are sure, they declare, that all that is necessary is for someone to start the "ball rolling" and that the trip will be made.

BIGAMY CHARGE DENIED BY RAGSDALE'S LAWYER

Sensation in Divorce Court Friday Was Without Color of Truth, Says Coburn

That the sensation sprung in divorce court Friday by Mrs. B. F. Ragsdale with her charge that her husband married her when she was sixteen years old and left her thirteen days later with the assertion that he had a previous wife in Rome, Ga., is without the color of truth, is the statement given out Saturday by W. B. Coburn, lawyer, who declares that he is the attorney for Ragsdale.

Mr. Coburn declares that his client is not a bigamist, did not have another wife in Rome, Ga., and did not quit his wife with that assertion, but quit her for other reasons. Those reasons, says Mr. Coburn were set out fully in Ragsdale's cross-bill for divorce. The cross-bill was withdrawn, says Mr. Coburn, upon a signed agreement that Mrs. Ragsdale would not sue for alimony. Mr. Coburn states that Ragsdale is engineer in the Candler annex building, Atlanta, and has been there for more than five years past. Instead of being married on October 18, 1909, as Mrs. Ragsdale stated, says the lawyer, the couple were married in November, 1910.

"My client will welcome an investigation such as Judge Ellis declared should be made upon Mrs. Ragsdale's weird story," said the lawyer, Saturday.

NEGRO CONFIDENCE GANG DISRUPTED BY POLICE

Detectives Sturdevant and Davis, Friday night broke up a gang of negro confidence men who, it is alleged, have victimized a score or more storekeepers and peddlers during the last few weeks. The detectives arrested Henry Brown and Dave Williams, two of the clan.

Brown, who says he came here from Montgomery, Ala., about a month ago, confessed to Assistant Chief of Police Jett and told of numerous instances in which change, sent out with orders from stores, was purloined by himself and companions.

For several days complaints came to the police almost daily. Storekeepers would receive an order for one or two dollars worth of goods over the telephone. Their supposed patron would request that change for a twenty dollar bill be sent along. His delivery boy would be met near the point designated and one of the gang would relieve him of the groceries and change, telling him to wait until he returned with the twenty dollar bill. In every instance, the delivery boy's wait was futile. The colored confidence men never came back.

Working on a description, the sleuths trailed the gang to 99 Pratt street, where Williams lives. There they captured the latter and Brown. Two other negroes who are supposed to be members of the gang, escaped.

SUMMER WEATHER WILL PROLONG STAY HERE

Weather that is good for growing crops and not bad for corns or bunions will continue, says Weather Forecaster von Herrmann. It will be clear and warm Sunday, and there will be little moisture in the atmosphere.

It should reach as high as 85 during the Sabbath, and probably not over 84 on Saturday. The nights will be pleasant. The sunshine has been general over the south the past few days, and has helped mightily to "thaw" things out.

It would not be advisable to try out a new pair of patent leather boots Sunday. A plunge in one of the fresh water lakes would be far more enjoyable.

NO SUBSTITUTE COULD DO THIS.

No inferior substitute, but only the genuine Foley Kidney Pills could have rid J. F. Wallich, Bartlett, Nebr., of his kidney trouble. He says: "I was bothered with backache, and the pain would back up to the back of my head, and I had spells of dizziness. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they did the work and I am now entirely rid of kidney trouble. My father-in-law, now past 93 years, has taken them and they have added years to his life." MISS KATE FAVER DIES IN NEWNAN, GA., HOME

The recent death of Miss Kate Faver, third daughter of Mrs. S. L. Faver, in Newnan, Ga., has been a source of great grief to scores of her friends in that city and elsewhere throughout the state. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery in Newnan, following funeral services at the First Methodist church, of which Miss Faver was a devoted member.

Some confusion has been occasioned by the statement that Miss Faver was a former Atlanta school teacher. It has been pointed out that there were two Miss Favers, the one dying in Newnan being a cousin of the Miss Kate Faver who taught school in Atlanta.

NEGRO KILLS WOMAN AND THEN TAKES OWN LIFE

After slashing the throat of a negress, presumably in a fit of jealousy, as she was walking along Capitol avenue, Friday night, Hilley Johnson, a negro butler, darted into a nearby alley in the neighborhood and cut his throat, dying instantly. The wounded girl was taken to Grady hospital where she died on the operating table. Later she was identified as May Bell Huckleberry, a maid living in the vicinity of Capitol avenue and Crumley street. She never spoke after receiving the slashes.

Eyewitnesses told Policemen Shumate and Palmer, who investigated the tragedy, that the girl with another negress was walking out Capitol avenue. As they passed No. 152, Johnson, who was coming up the street on the opposite side, crossed over and joined the two as they passed under a street light. He lunged at her with a razor, and though she made a desperate effort to beat him off with a stick she carried, he succeeded in cutting her mortally.

ATLANTA AND ELKDOM CELEBRATE FLAG DAY

Nation's Ensign Displayed on Public Building—Elks' Program in Evening

With a program befitting the day, the 136th anniversary of the birth of the United States of America flag will be celebrated Saturday evening by the Atlanta lodge, No. 78, of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. The program will begin at 8 o'clock, and the public as well as Elks and their families are invited to attend it.

Official observance of the day was ordered in an executive paper from the office of Mayor Woodward. Friday afternoon, wherein the mayor directed that the nation's flag be displayed all day Saturday from the city's public buildings. Even the city school houses, closed for the summer's vacation, were included in the order. The mayor invited owners of other buildings in the city to display the flag.

In the residence districts a number of homes displayed the flag, but these tributes to the ensign were not so numerous as patriotic citizens actively interested in the celebration of the flag's anniversary would like to see them become.

The B. P. O. Elks, fundamentally patriotic, all of whose members must be American citizens, observes two fixed anniversaries, Flag day, on June 16, and Elks' Memorial day on the first Sunday in December in memory of departed brothers. A solemn ritual is prescribed for each.

The ritual will form but a part of the program that has been arranged for Saturday evening. That program will be held in the lodge room on the fourth floor of the Elks' home, 40 East Ellis street. It will include music by a full orchestra, "The Star Spangled Banner," sung by the audience, will be followed by introductory exercises from the ritual by officers of the lodge. Chaplain B. Wildauer will voice the opening prayer. William Maurer, tenor, will sing a solo number. General R. K. Evans, United States army, will address the gathering. Rabbi David Marx, a member of the lodge will speak on "Elkdom." Miss Regina Rambo will read the history of the flag, and Mrs. Frederick E. Kneip, soprano, will sing a solo, following which the Elks ritual in tribute to the flag will be recited. Rev. W. W. Memminger, a member of the order, will deliver an address on "The Elks' Tribute to the Flag." This will be followed by a solo by Mrs. John Edgar McKee, the verses of her song, "We'll Stand by the Flag," having been composed by herself. Walter P. Andrews, a past exalted ruler of the lodge, will deliver an address, Wilford Watters will sing, the audience will sing "America" and "Columbia" and Rabbi Marx will pronounce the benediction concluding the program.

CHICKS AND CHILDREN CAUSE NEIGHBORS' ROW

A bunch of brown hair was exhibit A in the recorder's court room Friday afternoon, when the case of the five fighters of Fort McPherson, four of them women, was brought up for trial. The hair, it was admitted by both parties concerned, had been extracted from the head of Mrs. Pearl Barnes by Mrs. Hicks.

The four women and the one man were arrested by officers at the fort Thursday afternoon in the middle of a battle royal. They were Clarence Barnes and his wife, Pearl Barnes; Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. Hattie Crash, and Mrs. Marguerite Long, all the women being wives of soldiers. Each was fined $5.75 by the recorder.

The trouble, it appeared from the testimony, arose over the chickens belonging to Mrs. Barnes. The testimony grew rather confused as to what happened immediately afterward.

All of the women appeared to be bruised slightly when they appeared in court.

Miss Lillian Russell Writes

The best homes in England have for years used an article from a recipe called Waw-Waw. This was prepared by a young English singer, who had suffered with indigestion for years, by the suggestion of a noted French doctor, and $20,000 was offered to anyone who could analyze the Waw-Waw correctly. Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American Indian word for vegetable) contains no raw spices, and is absolutely pure. It is a sauce unlike all others, and when added to the cooking or with salads, hot and cold meats and fish it gives a flavor unequalled, and at the same time notice how easily your food is digested. Miss Lillian Russell, the beautiful actress writes: "Waw-Waw is delicious. Added to soups, salads, meats and fish it is unequalled.

MOVIE SHOW OPERATOR FINED FOR NO LICENSE

On complaint of City Electrician R. C. Turner, three white men were tried before Recorder Broyles Friday afternoon on charges of violating the city ordinance in regard to motion picture operators. They all denied their guilt, but on Turner's testimony were fined $15.75 by the recorder.

Turner testified that he found J. M. Kempton in the operating room of the Bonita theater running off a reel and smoking a cigarette. Kempton, says Turner, had no license to run a picture machine and was endangering the lives of the theater's patrons by smoking. Kempton denied that he was in the room.

Ben Daniels, operator at the Bonita, and George Cambel, part owner of the theater, were fined for allowing Kempton to pursue his alleged actions.

PRISONERS GIVEN TREAT BY VAUDEVILLE STARS

Life was made a little brighter for the several hundred prisoners in the federal prison Friday morning, with an entertainment by some generous vaudeville artists now playing at the Forsyth.

The performance was given in the auditorium of the jail, and was enjoyed by the eight hundred and fifty inmates.

Those who furnished the amusement were Chick Sale, the popular impersonator and character comedian; the Misses Mayre and Addis, pretty singers and comediennes; the John R. Gordon company in a comedy sketch, with Mr. Pickens, Mrs. Gordon and Miss Wadsworth, and Signor Travato, the eccentric violinist who makes his violin talk, whistle and imitate almost any noise.

SHORT COVERING AND BULL SUPPORT CAUSED ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 1 to 3 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—Cotton opened steady at a decline of [illegible] points under realizing for over the week-end and scattered selling, which seemed to b chiefly inspired by indications for good weather. Private reports Saturday, however, private advices from the south were that recent [illegible] had caused the period of present injury and that the plant would grow rapidly with a few days of warm sunshine, and the expectations of better crop conditions next week, combined with claims that the short interest had been materially reduced seemed to create a more bearish sentiment. The census figures on supply and consumption, however, showed a well-sustained volume of domestic consumption for May and a small acreage available in mill stocks. This encouraged sufficient buying to steady prices at the decline.

The market closed very steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points. Estimated receipts today 5,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—Cotton futures opened steady and unchanged to 2 points down, declined with the close on active months 4 points and a moderate advance served to put prices up for an hour or so, while general trading was thought impossible after a week of bull trading. Next to no week-end liquidation came from the long side, owing to the prospect of good weather for the entire belt over Sunday, and in addition to the further rise in temperatures to the highest of the morning the trading months were six to eight points lower Monday on the quotations. The close was steady at a net decline of 1 to 3 points.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

Times-Democrat says: The bear perked up as the temperatures were climbed and before the close of yesterday's cotton market the fact that the day was Friday, the date the 13th and the year 1913 seemed to be significant. Not that we believe but not by the bulls, as some small evidence of superstition was shown, but it was a big light in the camp of the low price people. The talking point for the bears is the belief that much of the short interest has been covered and that the technical positions of the market is not nearly so strong as it was. But others know that there is still enough short interest outstanding to justify a cautious policy. Good weather is now on the cards, and the worst weather over in the belt and the stock market is also showing up in mill stocks. This encouraged sufficient buying to steady prices at the decline.

The market closed very steady at an advance of 1 to 3 points. Estimated receipts today 5,000 bales.

WORLD'S VISIBLE SUPPLY STATEMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compares the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows a decrease for the week just of 214,134, against a decrease of 210,538 last year and a decrease of 122,000 year before last.

The total visible is 3,801,497, against 4,015,631 last week, 3,741,582 last year and 2,678,893 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 2,333,893, last year before last, and of other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,467,604, against 1,524,000 last week, 1,692,000 last year and 1,125,000 year before last.

The total world's visible supply of cotton as above shows a decrease compared with last week of 214,134, an increase compared with last year of 59,915, and an increase compared with year before last of 1,122,604.

Of the world's visible supply of cotton as above, 2,960,000 last and held in Great Britain and continental Europe, 2,184,000, against 2,344,000 last week, 1,582,000 year before last; in Egypt 142,000, against 150,000 last week, 112,000 year before last; in India 935,000, against 950,000 last week, 580,000 year before last; and in the United States 2,560,000, against 2,615,000 last year and 392,000 year before last.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, June 14.—Liverpool Cotton Circular crop summary for the week is good. The weather news further improved. Rain is general else in parts of Texas, where it is cloudy. The only precipitation reported in Texas. Indications for continued fair weather for several days to come. Temperatures have risen.

Local traders sold on the opening on the theory that the weather would favor crop contracts as scarce as ever. This together with week-end covering by shorts and some buying by Bell, caused a firm closing. The distribution generally was on a small scale and helped the rally from the early low. Business was light and the market ruled largely professional. Cotton on the spot was in good demand.

New Orleans-Times-Democrat will issue a crop report Monday, no figures will be shown.

STOCK GOSSIP

Bank statement today should show a substantial increase in reserve if the movement of currency was in full volume. Should this be the case, it is believed that the recent sharp advance will carry prices higher and would buy on all weak spells.

Dow Jones summary: J. J. Hill declares business conditions are favorable and advises people to keep a clear head. Attorney General McReynolds says he has no fear of the Sherman anti-trust law. Foreign financial sentiment improved due to more hopeful view of Balkan situation.

Twelve industrials advanced .30. Twenty active rails advanced .15.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says: It was the belief of grain dealers generally that most of the local longs were out of their wheat, fearing rains in the north would be followed by no luck for much break and say that unless there are more forthcoming bearish developments "to be bought on all good setbacks. The selling in the last hour was on reports of little rains around Bismarck, N. D.

Corn and oats regarded as weather markets. Good rains needed in the Dakotas and states.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat: The map shows light rains in the Dakotas and northwest. There was considerable scattered liquidation by locals on the reported rains and there may be more further selling by operators rather short. Shorts are not apt to be very aggressive over Sunday.

Corn: Liquidation was quite general yesterday and as crop conditions continue to be considerable reinstatement on the part of recent sellers.

Oats: The irregularity in reports covering the growing crop will continue to give us a good market for some time.

Provisions: As long as the strength continues in the hog market, it is rather inadvisable to look for much setback in the general list.

On and off buying this week has had a purchase.—Chapman.

WEEKLY COTTON LETTER

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—The cotton market made new high ground on local cover during the week. Heavy rains were encountered as the market approached 13¢, counts ran for new crop deliveries, however, while there were also indications that the movement would be more active between New York and Liverpool was lead. Trade interest centered around July and there was long interest in July and prices at the close today showed modest gains ranging from 30 to 40 points. There have been complaints of low night temperatures in the belt and reports of damage from grasshoppers from south Texas, Oklahoma and Mississippi and Louisiana, but otherwise crop advices were generally favorable, and yesterday a prominent Memphis authority reported the condition of the average crop of over 2 per cent since the end of May. The fitness of the crop is good and therefore, was not generally considered the reason for the sharp change in the new crop outlook, but the strength of the old crop was the last, and the belief that European spinners have tied up a large number of local contracts against prospective requirements doubtless rendered the trade generally oblivious to the possibility of less favorable crop advices should unexpectedly large temperatures continue. Further shipments from the local stock have reduced the unofficial supply but to less than 45,000 bales, thus increasing the uneasiness of the trade over bearish shorts, while bulls have had the encouragement of more optimistic views as to the future outcome of a more active demand upon the mills for goods and a possible scarcity of the Underwood bill would be announced somewhat later by Democratic manufacturers. There was some selling yesterday, however, on reports of warmer weather in the belt and an idea that there had been a material help from the outstanding short interest.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET WAS ACTIVE AND STRONG

Canadian Pacific, Lehigh Valley, St. Paul, Union Pacific and Interboro Led

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 14.—There was a fair demand for stocks when trading began today and small gains were recorded all through the list in the first hour. Canadian Pacific, after having dropped 8¾, was the only important stock to develop heaviness. Canadian Pacific, Can and Interborough preferred advanced a point. The gains elsewhere were fractional.

Bears started the market and finding no sustained demand at the opening level forced the buying down. Union Pacific, Amalgamated and Can reacted a point. Subsequently Canadian Pacific and Interborough preferred were lifted 2 points over yesterday's final figures and the general market became active and joined in the rise.

Concerted efforts to drive in a stubborn short interest, performed with more confident operations for the long account, were effective before noon. Gains of 1 to 2 points on top of the earlier rise were followed by a still more large fortifications already achieved since the rebound began.

Bear operators were helped by the more cheerful character of western trade and crop advices, as well as by the general feeling of abroad consequent upon the improvement in the Balkan situation and the passing of the London settlement without serious trouble.

Growing ease in money rates, which made funds available for speculation, was one of the important factors in bringing about a

HUTCHESON RETRACTS HIS ATTACK ON HOTEL

In Letter to Lessee, Carl Hutcheson Exonerates Empire Hotel of All Charges

John L. Edmondson has requested The Journal to publish the following letter:

Atlanta, Ga., June 13, 1913.

Mr. John L. Edmondson, Atlanta, Ga.

My Dear Friend: You have seen a copy of an affidavit which was given to me in which the Empire hotel was held up as an immoral hostelry. I wrote this affidavit in good faith and accepted the contents therein in good faith, but after conferring with Assistant Chief of Police Jett, whom I consider an honorable officer, I am convinced that the party who made the affidavit swore a lie; that what he sets out in said affidavit is false, and that I have done you a wrong which I can never correct, except by future steadfast friendship.

In taking the man's affidavit, I wrote it as he gave it, but I am now convinced that he swore falsely. I wish to also state that I shall make every effort to have the affiant brought to justice, and I shall utilize every effort of mind and body to prosecute the affiant, and all parties connected therewith for perjury to the extent of my ability. I detest and despise liars, impostors and perjurers, and nothing would give me more pleasure than to place the affiant and his conspirators if you splease in prison where they justly belong.

I wish to state that I have never known you to do a dishonorable act, and more than that, we have fought our battles side by side in the past, and I trust that we may do so in the future.

I beg to state that I think a man is a coward if he does not acknowledge a mistake. I am confident that if any disorderly women were ever guests at your hotel that you were not cognizant thereof.

In justice to myself, I will state, and I think that you will agree with me, that under the circumstances I had acted in good faith in this entire matter; unless I made the error of not conferring with you before I placed before the grand jury the affidavit which I now consider a damnable piece of perjury by irresponsible parties. If my hundreds of friends consider that I am vacillating, let them have their opinions. I will not before God and man do any person wrong if I can avoid it. Why? Because "truth crushed to earth will rise again with might and power."

In this letter I hereby call the attention of the grand jury to an affidavit now in their possession which I consider a nefarious piece of work, as mean and low as the burning of Rome by Nero.

In conclusion, I wish to state that I shall continue to fight and bring to light the truth of my general accusations concerning vice conditions in this city, as published in the press of May 27; but never shall I allow any person to be wronged when I am convinced that I have been instrumental in wronging him.

I trust that this, my letter, will be accepted in the same spirit in which I write it. Sincerely yours,

CARL HUTCHESON.

DEATH ENDS LIFE TERM OF "UNCLE JOHN" ROSS

Unique Character at Federal Prison Dies After Thirty-Three Years in Jail

"Uncle John" Ross has served his life term in the Atlanta federal penitentiary. For thirty-three years the gray walls of prisons had been his only home, until Friday afternoon. Then the old man died. He was sixty-three years old.

Seldom will a man be missed more by those who knew him than will John Ross. Guards, officers and prisoners in the penitentiary had grown to love and respect the man who bore his sorrows so cheerfully and who helped others to a braver understanding of theirs.

Since he was a young man John Ross had been an inmate of a government prison. At the age of 20 he left his native home in Nova Scotia to go sailing away before the mast. When his ship touched at Yokohama, Japan, on a May night in 1880, Ross became embroiled with a fellow sailor and killed him.

The United States counsular court in Japan sentenced him to a life term in prison. He was brought to the Atlanta penitentiary in 1903, and soon afterward became converted. His health began to fail a few years ago, and he was made one of the prison door-keepers. He was also president of the Christian Endeavor society in the prison.

Funeral services will take place Sunday afternoon at Barclay and Brandon's chapel, and the interment will be at West View cemetery.

GRANT PARK TENNIS COURTS NEED REPAIR

Editor The Journal: This letter is in reference to the condition of the tennis courts at Grant Park, and other courts under the city's supervision. The courts are in a dilapidated condition. They are never rolled, and consequently are rocky and full of gutters caused by rain wash.

I would suggest that Mr. Carey order the park employes to keep them in good condition during the summer months, so that the public can have good tennis courts at their disposal.

The city council appropriates for the maintenance of swimming accessories at Piedmont Park. So why not put the manly sport of tennis for the public of Atlanta on a logical basis?

A., B. & A. MAY ENTER TERMINAL STATION

Report has it that the A., B. and A. railroad eventually will abandon the old Union passenger station. This report has gained credence since the Georgia Terminal company took action pointing towards the establishment of a branch line one quarter of a mile in length, connecting the A., B. and A. between Thurmond and Newton streets with the Southern tracks near a point on Magnolia street.

It is said that the Georgia Terminal company will ask permission of the United States court to amend its charter in accordance with a recently passed resolution providing for a branch line.

THEATERS

(Criticisms of [illegible] performances at the [illegible] theaters are written by members of The Journal staff. All other matter appearing in this column is furnished by the theater managements.)

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
BIJOU—Vaudeville and Pictures.

There has been a heavy advance sale of seats for the photo-play "Quo Vadis," at the Grand next week. Never in the history of Atlanta has there been such wonderful interest manifested in motion pictures. The very fact that "Quo Vadis" is the reigning hit in New York at this time, crowding the Astor theater to the limit of capacity, has aroused local theater-goers to secure seats in advance. "Quo Vadis" will be offered only twice a day, a matinee at 2:30 and at night at 8:30. The exhibition requires two and a quarter hours of time. There are three complete acts, in eight scenes, and there will be more than 10,000 feet of imported film used at every performance. The picture was made by the famous Cines people in Rome, who took eighteen months to accomplish the task. Thousands of people are used in the production, and there are some scenes that have baffled description. The big sensation of the picture is that scene showing the Christians about to be devoured by the wild lions that were turned against them. This picture is an actual scene taken in Italy, and as to just how it was accomplished there has been much surmise.

The prices of admission, with reserved seat, will be 25 cents at the matinees, and 25 and 50 cents at night.

The coming of Bud Fisher to the Forsyth means that there is going to be more interest in vaudeville and the busy theater than has been evidenced this season. It is a fact that the cartoonist is a real drawing card, he young man has made his name and his characters famous all over the world, and there is a natural desire to see him.

"The Lawn Party," with ten of the cleverest youngsters in vaudeville, will be another special attraction on this bill. These young people are expert in the art of character impersonations. They are going to mimic all of the leading stars of stagedom. Pauline Welch, the pretty singing and dancing comedienne, will be a popular card for the week, with new songs and dances, and there are other features that will make the Forsyth a most desirable place to visit during the week.

The bill this week has scored a great big hit. It is one of the best combinations of advanced vaudeville that has been seen since the first introduction of the variety in Atlanta.

Lou L. Sheen, the German singing comedian, is heading a big company of singers, dancers and fun-makers who will present "The Duke of Durham" next week at the Bijou. This is the fourth of the musical comedy tabloids that has appeared in Atlanta, and judging from the success scored so far, indications point to a successful season for the tabloids at the Bijou. Other special features that will make "The Duke of Durham" noteworthy will be the American Comedy Four, a quartet of splendid reputation; Callahan and Klein, in songs, dances and chatter, and Smith and Pollock, in tango dances. This tabloid will have more vaudeville than those that have preceded it, but this will not interfere with the musical numbers that will be rendered by a chorus of pretty girls, or with the other song features that have been popular with patrons of tabloid so far. The arrangement will include matinees every afternoon and night performances at 7:30 and 9.

Charter Member of Capital City Club and Pioneer Atlantian Passes Away

S. H. Phelan, Sr., pioneer citizen of Atlanta, charter member of the Capital City club, and one time director of the Cotton States exposition, passed away Friday at his home on his plantation in Crawford county, where he has lived since leaving Atlanta eight years ago.

He reached his sixtieth year last February. He was born in Montgomery, Ala. Together with his seven brothers he entered the Confederate service in the Civil war as a member of the famous Phelan battery. He was one of the youngest southerners in the army, serving through the entire war.

Brittain's Music Box Tinkles Old Melodies

Music in the state capitol may have been rather an unusual occurrence at one time but such is not the case any longer.

It is true that it cannot be heard throughout the wide roomy corridors, but the offices of State School Superintendent M. L. Brittain were ringing Friday afternoon with the sweet strains of two old war-time melodies.

The orchestra is composed of a small music box, scarcely larger than the palm of one's hand. It was purchased in Geneva, Switzerland, over sixty years ago, by Mr. Brittain's grandfather, and enjoys the distinction of having been carried through the Civil war by his father, Dr. J. M. Brittain, who was a lieutenant.

The school superintendent has had the little instrument repaired after many years of disuse, and it now plays as sweetly as when it cheered the tent of the young lieutenant.

It knows but two tunes, both melodies of the old days, "The Glad Song of Triumph" and "We Never Mention Her."

The little box of music is prized very highly by Mr. Brittain.

Deputy grand chancellor for the state of Georgia, H. Cronheim; chairman of the judiciary committee, Jesse M. Wood; member of committee state of the order, L. F. Terrell.

Mr. Cronheim is one of the best known Pythians in the state, and is superintendent of the insurance department of the Knights of Pythias. Mr. Wood is the councilman from the Fifth ward of Atlanta. Mr. Terrell is keeper of the records and the seal of the Uniform lodge. He is one of the most active of the younger Pythians in the city.

Grand Chancellor Bell is mayor of Milledgeville and president of a bank there but finds time from his official and business duties to give much of his energy to the interests of the order of which he is the Georgia head.

BURGLARS WERE AT WORK DURING FRIDAY NIGHT

Two burglaries were reported to the police as occurring Friday night, one on Peters street and the other on Peachtree street. At a pool-room and near-beer saloon on Peters street the side door was forced open and the cash drawer rifled of about $20, while the grocery store of J. H. Barrett, 1212 Peachtree, was entered through a side window and a few articles of food were taken.

ASKS JURY TO RESUME PROBE OF DICTOGRAPH

Attorney Felder Wants Gentry Affidavit Weighed—Foreman Beck Non-committal

Thomas B. Felder, the attorney, is said to have requested Foreman L. H. Beck, of the Fulton county grand jury, to take up an investigation of an affidavit alleged to have been signed by George W. Gentry in which it is charged that the famous dictograph records were padded.

Mr. Felder took up the matter with the grand jury foreman by letter, it is said, and stated that he was ready to produce young Gentry whenever the jury needs him. Gentry is said to be in Washington, and Felder states that he is in daily communication with him.

Another figure in the dictograph episode who now is missing from the city is A. S. Colyar. At the Williams house, where he lived in the city, Colyar left no address, but reserved a room, saying that he expected to return to the city.

Chief of Detectives Lanford declares that he does not know the whereabouts of either Colyar or Gentry, although he is conducting a vigorous search in Washington for the latter.

Foreman L. H. Beck of the grand jury has stated again that the term of service of the present body is so short that it is absolutely necessary that it take up the routine business of the solicitor's office.

The foreman, however, will not make a definite statement relative to the dictograph probe or to the vice probe.

A WORKER APPRECIATES THIS

Wm. Morris, a resident of Florence, Oregon, says: "For the last fourteen years my kidneys and bladder incapacitated me for all work. About eight months ago I began using Foley Kidney Pills, and they have done what other medicines failed to do, and now I am doing and feeling fine, I heartily recommend Foley Kidney Pills." Foley Kidney Pills do not contain habit forming drugs and are tonic in acting, quick in results. They will help any case of kidney trouble not beyond the reach of medicine. For sale by all dealers.—(Advt.)

ST. PAUL PICNIC TO BE HELD ON JUNE 17

On account of the cold weather last Tuesday the St. Paul people postponed their picnic until next Tuesday, June 17. All tickets sold for that date will be good for the 17th. This is one of the largest Sunday schools in the city and it goes without saying that they will take a record crowd.

To the Traveling Men of Georgia

We want to get in touch with a good many traveling men throughout Georgia, men that are now selling to the general store, in the smaller towns, and also making the country stores. We are trying to reach the men that travel their trade regularly. You can carry our sample in your vest pocket, and it will only take a minute or so, after you have finished with your customer. Our goods are advertised, and repeat wherever placed. What we will pay will help out nicely, and help you overcome that high cost of living. This is a traveling man talking to you, and he knows. You can make from $50.00 to $75.00 every month in the year without half trying. A sample to every traveling man that answers. Give me your permanent address.

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.

Decatur's Remarkable School Attendance.

Decatur has earned the rare and enviable distinction of having within its borders only two children between the ages of six and fourteen who have not attended school during the past scholastic year and for these lone exceptions satisfactory reasons can doubtless be given. It would be difficult to conceive of a truer or finer tribute to a community's social standards. On this one record Decatur could well afford to rest its claims as a desirable home center; for, here we have the evidence of well conducted, attractive schools and of an enlightened, progressive people.

This is an ideal to which every town in Georgia should aspire and, with an adequate State law providing for compulsory school attendance, it will be attainable by them all. Happy, indeed, is the community which like Decatur achieves this and through its own will and alertness; but the thousands of children who are less fortunately environed are entitled to the State's guarantee of their rights.

Incidentally there will be a good crop of canned goods.

We are gradually getting to the point where warm weather excites no surprise.

It has been well said that the Huerta government is as bankrupt in a military sense as Madero's was financially. The once dominant general seems to have lost his grip upon the troops nominally at his command, while revolutionary leaders are rallying followers in practically all the districts save those immediately about the capital.

Northern Mexico has fallen under the control of the rebels and recent dispatches indicate that the southern part of the country will soon be beyond federal power. Huerta's soldiers are so lacking in spirit that only the most drastic discipline can whip them into a semblance of loyalty. It has come to be rather a frequent happening that commanders and their companies go bodily over to the enemy against whom they are dispatched while in other instances troops which are ordered into a particular campaign refuse to move.

In these circumstances, it is doubtful that the Huerta regime can hold together until the elections for a new and constitutional President are held next autumn. The wisdom of the United States in declining to recognize this flimsy provisional government becomes more and more manifest.

Judging by her silence Japan must have decided to take a summer vacation.

President Wilson ought to offer for public distribution the fruits of the White House mint bed.

Georgia Demands Further Laws Against Pistol "Toters."

The waxing power of public sentiment in Georgia against the carrying of concealed weapons becomes more and more evident. In a number of counties vigorous campaigns against this evil have been instituted and are producing noteworthy results. Judges and court officials generally have realized the importance of enforcing such laws as we now have and, at the same time, the need of more adequate legislation in this regard.

An act of 1910 requiring persons who wish to carry a pistol openly to secure a license from the county ordinary before they may do so has greatly strengthened the hands of the courts, and given point to the previous and still operative statute forbidding the carrying of concealed pistols. Experience shows, however, that before such offenses can be combated as they should be, the State must establish some measure of regulation for the sale of pistols; and it is to that end that the General Assembly should now direct its attention.

Representative Fullbright, of Burke, is said to have in mind a bill which is cleverly devised to accomplish the desired purpose. This bill would forbid the sale of cartridges to any persons other than those having a license to carry a pistol openly and dealers would be required to keep records and submit to the ordinary sworn monthly reports of such sales as they had made. That would limit the purchase of cartridges to men who had taken out licenses to carry pistols openly and since comparatively few, if any, such licenses are applied for, the chain of the law would be practically complete.

Certain it is that the Georgia public will welcome any reasonable measure that will clear the way for a drastic and conclusive campaign against the "pistol toter."

One Hundred Miles An Hour.

Fancy an airship from Atlanta to New York between breakfast and bedtime, and you will have a fairly accurate idea of the achievement of the French aviator, Brindejone des Moulinais, in his recent flight from Paris to Warsaw. The distance between the two cities, approximately nine hundred and thirty miles, he covered in fourteen hours and fourteen minutes; and if the four and a half hours consumed in stops along the way are subtracted, his average speed stands at more than a hundred miles an hour. Indeed, on the final lap of his trip, that from Berlin to Warsaw, he flew the three hundred and fifty-five miles in one hundred and fifty-five minutes, an average speed of a hundred and thirty-seven miles an hour.

"This demonstrates more clearly than any previous achievement in aviation," thinks the Boston Transcript, "the possibilities of the aeroplane, once it can be made safe for general use." And the fact that the Frenchman accomplished his journey without appreciable accident or enforced delay would indicate that in Europe at least remarkable progress in the safety of air craft is being made.

Having experienced our first thrill from the adventures of aviation, we are likely to forget or minimize the vast field of possibilities it represents or to assume that, after all, the air ship is merely a dazzling toy hardly capable, for at least centuries to come, of any broadly practical use. But the records made almost weekly are contradicting this idea. While in America there is a temporary lull in aviation, in the Old World feats as substantial as they are wonderful are being performed in rapid succession. More than that, Governments are spending millions of dollars to encourage this art and capitalists are investing millions more in confidence of its profitable results.

Most of the easy jobs in politics cost more than they are worth.

The average man would rather help out with the anvil chorus than play second violin.

At any rate, Friday the 13th is over, and past also are the alleged humorous hits on the day.

The Way of the Lobbyists.

Lobbyists or, if you will, "representatives" of the Hawaiian sugar producers admit having spent a hundred thousand dollars in their campaign against free sugar and add, with rare gullelessness, that they were prepared to spend an additional eight hundred thousand, had not President Wilson's plain speech and the consequent investigation by the Senate upset their plans.

This is a fair indication of the attitude of certain types of men and interests toward the Government and toward public policies. They regard legislation as a thing to be bought and sold, if not directly, none the less effectually through influences set in motion and manipulated by money power. These gentlemen probably consider the means they were employing thoroughly legitimate, but that fact only proves the more clearly their moral colorblindness where public affairs are concerned. It seems never to have occurred to them that a Congress and a President have been elected for the expressed purpose of thorough tariff revision and that in seeking to swerve the people's representatives from a binding pledge by the use of money, they are striking at the very roots of honest government.

If particular interests may spend millions of dollars to influence pending legislation, while the rank and file of the people must rest content with their vote at the polls, then popular government becomes a mere fiction. But this evil, like most evils, cannot stand the test of publicity. The true purpose of the tariff lobby is best shown by the fact that, following the President's blunt statement, it has faded from view. So long as it could work covertly, it had hopes; but once in the light, its cunning forsook it.

If a woman knew how she looks while running to catch a car, she wouldn't.

THE PHILIPPINES

II.—PROVINCIAL ADMINISTRATION.

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The provincial system of administration in the Philippine Islands is in two parts. The provincial system is the part which operates solely in the provinces. The other part is as much central as provincial, being the several insular bureaus which are located in Manila, but which do most of their work in all parts of the islands. Strictly speaking, they are a part of the central government, but as the bulk of their duties pertain to the provinces they will be considered in this connection.

• • •

The principal bureaus are executive, education, audits, treasury, customs, internal revenue, public works, justice, constabulary, lands, forestry, science, health, printing, supply, posts, navigation, agriculture and labor. Other important offices which do not rank as bureaus are those of the supervising railway expert, consulting architect, Philippine hospital, coal expert, the big ice plant and the Philippine library. All the leading officials of these bureaus and offices are Americans. The only one dominated by Filipinos is the bureau of labor, where all the officers and employes are Filipinos. Salaries for bureau directors average $6,000 per annum. The director of public works draws $7,000 and his assistant director $6,000. The director of labor draws $4,000, while the forestry director is paid $5,000. All the others get $3,000. Assistant directors average from $3,500 to $4,250. Chief clerks and chiefs of divisions range from $2,000 to $3,000. Of these positions 99 per cent are held by Americans. In addition there are hundreds of American clerks who are paid from $1,200 to $2,000.

• • •

This fat salary roll which the Americans subsist upon is always a target for Filipino attacks, especially as liberal accrued leave and vacation privileges go with them. Just here the same problem of supply and demand has to be met. Just as with the members of the commission and the supreme court, as previously explained. Competent Americans will not go over there for less. The high cost of living, averaging in Manila and some provincial points as high as in San Francisco, Seattle, Denver or Washington, also cuts into the apparently high salaries. The necessity of frequent vacations to Japan or to this country, plus the life-saving trips to the United States for the women and children of an employe's family, make another drain on his purse.

• • •

Fully half of the American civil service personnel finally returns to the United States with very little more money than they started away with. As a rule, the only benefits derived from a sojourn of three, five or ten years in the Philippines is the varied experiences, important official responsibilities (for which a young man has to wait twenty years or more in this country), travel and a generally-widened perspective. Against this must be checked complete exile from home and relatives, loss of material advancement here which his stay-at-home brother has grabbed in his absence, and an impaired physique. The only ones who make their Philippine experience pay financially are such of the young, unmarried men who happen to be General and the men whose wives also hold government jobs and get from $1,200 to $2,000. There is only one married woman who earns the latter sum, and she is chief clerk of a bureau. Of the other two women who enjoy similar compensations, one is a widow and the other is unmarried. Many others make $1,600 and $1,800.

• • •

Competence is another factor. The plain truth is that for the present at least the bulk of the positions in the bureaus, even the ordinary clerkships and stenographic posts, are not held by the Filipinos. It has only been within the last three years that a handful here and there have been able to pass the first grade civil service examination in English, which entitles them to a salary of $1,200. At present not over twenty Filipino clerks hold such positions and of Filipino stenographers earning $1,000 or more there are three in the entire list of bureaus. As to the high posts, some Americans say that no Filipino has demonstrated administrative ability to entitle him to be director or assistant director of a bureau. This is the kind of talk indulged by anti-Filipino Americans despite the good records made by two Filipino attorney generals as chiefs of the bureau of justice. No other Filipino ever has been given a chance either to succeed or fail at the head of a bureau. The important technical posts such as engineer, agricultural experts, professors in the university, etc., are generally beyond the Filipinos at the present time. The few who have been educated in the United States or Europe are gradually working into such positions, however, and, in the main, do fairly well. This also is true of the clerkships, and the constantly increasing number of Filipinos who are beginning to draw fat salaries testifies to the fact that the insular government is following the injunction of President McKinley, that, all things being equal, the Filipino must be given the preference over his American competitor.

• • •

Every part of the provinces feels the influence of the bureaus. For instance, the bureau of education maintains schools in every hamlet. Not a road is built or a bridge thrown across a stream without the supervision of the bureau of public works through the district engineer. The military policing of the islands is done by the constabulary. Every provincial treasurer is an agent of the insular treasurer in Manila. The forest reserves are under the bureau of forestry. All surveying and parceling of land is controlled by the director of forestry. All the postoffices come under the away of the director of posts. Internal revenue agents are the eyes and ears, and sometimes the fists, of the insular collector of internal revenue. The bureau directors in turn report to the member of the commission in whose portfolio they happen to be. That worthy settles all cases administratively, reserving only the few which affect the government's policy for provincial meetings of the commission.

• • •

In everything these bureaus do in the provinces they are directed to work harmoniously with the Filipino provincial officials. For instance, the provincial treasurer, who is an American in all of the twenty-nine provinces but three, holds the purse string. Nevertheless his work would be valueless if he failed to diplomatically include the governor in his plans for the upkeep of the province. The native governors are usually competent, and there have been cases in which the American treasurer was both incompetent and dishonest, yet some Americans complain that it is mandatory upon the American official to consult the Filipino governor, and often to yield to him. The complaint is based on the theory that the American is necessarily right and the Filipino wrong, regardless of the facts. It is well known that an American treasurer or constabulary officer must keep on good terms with the native officials if they wish to stand high with their chiefs in Manila. Not infrequently the word of the native is accepted in Manila above that of the American with whom he has clashed.

• • •

While this policy is the cause of unrest among Americans the insular government has always pointed out that it was in conformity with the instructions of President McKinley to the first Philippine commission, headed by Jacob Gould Schurmann, president of Cornell university. It has been felt all along that the only way for the Filipinos to learn to govern themselves is to participate in the practical work of the government even though administration suffers. Many Americans in the islands consider this theory harmful and wrong both to him and to the Filipino. It is contended that the Filipino should learn more thoroughly even if the process is slower. However, this is what President McKinley said:

• • •

"In all the forms of government and administrative provisions which they are authorized to prescribe, the commission should bear in mind that the government which they are establishing is designed not for our satisfaction, or for the expression of our theoretical views, but for the happiness, peace and prosperity of the people of the Philippine islands."

THE TANGO

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

"Sem," in the Journal of Paris gives us some interesting facts about the origin of the tango, a dance that is now the thing in New York, Paris and all the fever centers of society. From his articles I gather the following information, which the devotees of the tango may find diverting:

Buenos Ayres, as every one knows, is a superb and almost brand new city, of which the Argentines are justly proud. Its modern prosperity, however, is still flecked by a vestige of the primitive town, a dirty quarter, bearing the picturesque title of "Barrio de las ranas," or "the frog quarter." This section, given over to the lowest forms of vice, is composed of dives and brothels of the vilest order, and recalls the "Rideck" of Antwerp, the "Red Hat" of Toulon, South Clark street, of Chicago, or the old Ninth street region of Omaha.

What gives this part of the city its unique appearance is its queer architecture. The dance halls and drinking resorts are constructed of fragments of coal oil cans and preserved meat tins, displaying a tinny splendor, cut into festoons and rosettes, giving the impression of madmen's palaces, their facades adorned with variegated signs of "Standard Oil," "Armour's Beef," and "Armour de Tucuman," all shining in the fierce sunlight with oil, grease, and molasses.

In the streets are mountains of garbage, dead fish, and rubbish of all kinds, swarming with rats and vermin. The city, for health's sake, burns this matter in open fires, so that the air is full of the most disgusting odors. It is a spectacle truly Dantesque, the filthiest of habitations for the filthiest of humans, enlivened by the crashing music of mechanical organs, a hideous fair ground of wretchedness.

The population of the place is composed of the dregs of Latin Europe, mostly Italian, called in the *slang of Buenos Ayres "compatridos." With the com*plexion of bean soup, they slouch along, their hat brims pulled down over their eyes, their white teeth gleaming from under their pomaded moustache, their hair greasy and their necks clean shaved—as if for the convenience of the hangman.

But the most striking thing (bearing upon the tango) is their walk and attitudes. With eyes alert, watching the police or the women, they glide about cautious, elastic, as tigers in a cage, their backs against the walls for protection against the envious knife, advancing obliquely, slyly, their legs pliant, as if ready to spring.

These are the creators of the tango, which is but the dance development of their steps, set to rhythm. In the tango, which just now obsesses the idlers of both worlds, are found all the unclean gestures, the unchaste contortions and suggestive shrugs, all the simian obscenity of these gentry.

The tango is the "danse du venture" for two, the professional dance of the lupanars of Urugay and the Argentine.

Curious anomaly of civilization! The tango "de las ranas" of Buenos Ayres has captured the topmost society of Paris and New York; gentle ladies from the fashionable Saint-Germain and from the gingerbread palaces of Central Park East are enchanted with the new sensation from the Subura of a South American town.

Strange enigma! The tango, the very name of which would cause a demi-mondaine of the second class in Buenos Ayres to blush, is received with open arms by our "best" people, welcomed and advertised by our most pernickety hotels.

This, as George Ade might remark, is going some.

Ballade of Bads and Hobbies

(Mr. Page, the new United States ambassador to Great Britain, is described by a morning paper as having "no fads and no hobbies.")

We welcome to our ancient land
America's ambassador—
Extend to him the gladsome hand.
As we have often done before.
But Fleet Street's feeling very sore
Because a paragraphist adds
A fact that one and all deplore:
He has no hobbies and no fads.

Oh, how the journalistic band
Their graying locks with fury tore;
They grimly asked "Where do we stand?
For public men we've known of yore
Have all adjourned for adjuting lore:
Collecting stamps, or playing Strads,
And many paragraphs galore;
He has no hobbies and no fads!"

How democratic 'tis, and grand,
To bar the interviewing bore;
And, as originally planned,
Put in the hours from ten to four
(And even, p'raps, a little more)
With pens and ink and writing pads.
Forgetting that indignant roar,
"He has no hobbies and no fads."

ENVOI

You who are up in social lore,
Your occupation's gone, my lads.
And, on this Page you need not pore;
He has no hobbies and no fads.

—London Globe.

Atlanta Invites the Bankers.

(The Financier, New York.)

Atlanta Ga., which hopes to obtain the 1914 convention of the American Bankers' association, had a worthy representative in the person of Vice President John K. Ottley, of the Fourth National, that city. Mr. Ottley's presentation of Atlanta's claims was so strong and logical that the battle was more than half won before the council adjourned. He gave assurances that Atlanta's hotel facilities were sufficient to take care of the bankers, no matter how large the attendance. Atlanta certainly can find no fault with Mr. Ottley if she does not get the convention, but this is not to be interpreted that the 1914 gathering will not go to Atlanta.

Little May—Why, I thought cucumbers grew in slices.

"Oh, no, I ain't, papa," was the reply. "I'm a-gnawin' this candy."

At The End Of The Rainbow

"I have just been enjoying a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep," said the wild man of the woods, "and I am a giant refreshed. As a man waxes into the sere and yellow leaf he greatly enjoys a trifling snooze after the midday meal. I don't know why it should be so, but half an hour of slumber at such a time does him more good than eight hours of it at night. One great advantage of the forest primeval is that the dweller in its solemn aisles may sleep when he lists, with none to interrupt him.

"It is far different in the busy haunts. The married man who lives in town needs an afternoon nap far more than does the gentle hermit of the dell, for the life he leads is exhausting. A bachelor may find a place where he can sleep, but a married man has no chance. I tried for years and years to get a handful of sleep after dinner, but that boon was denied me. My wife was a beautiful and majestic woman, indorsed by press and pulpit, and I wouldn't permit any man to point the finger of scorn at her, but she had old-fashioned ideas of industry. She considered it little less than a crime to sit and read, or lie down and sleep, during the day time. She laughed to scorn all of my protestations that an afternoon nap was necessary to my well-being.

"There was a couch in the sitting room, and I made desperate efforts to get the sleep I needed after I had eaten, but my wife always washed the dishes at that hour and she made more noise washing a few cups and saucers than I'd make shaking the ashes down in a furnace. I know of nothing more exasperating than the clattering of crockery when you are trying to get a half-nelson on Morpheus. She always claimed that she never made more noise than was necessary, but the fact remains that all the dishes that were broken in our house were broken when I was trying to get to sleep. Every once in a while she'd drop a big glass pitcher or something that made more racket than a train of cars; and I'd have to give up the effort and go to work with a sad heart and aching head.

"I might have stood it if I could have had plenty of sleep at night when the sentinel stars set their watch in the sky, but the alarums and excursions were more numerous then than at any other time. My wife, noble woman as she was, had a fear of burglars that amounted to a brainstorm. I have sometimes thought that her one purpose in getting married was to secure a burglar alarm. My wife was always hearing mysterious footsteps in the basement, or she was sure that somebody was prying open the front door with a jimmy. Then there would be no peace until I had made the tour of the house. That was bad enough in the summer, but in the winter, when the borean blast howled at the casements and whistled in the chimney and the house was as cold as boarding flapjack coffee, it was an experience that sent the iron into my soul.

"I remember one pestilent wintry night when the mercury in the thermometer had sunk so low that you couldn't reach it with a fishpole. My wife roused me from a deep dream of peace and told me that she had distinctly heard a burglar open the kitchen window and clamber inside. I knew it was a false alarm, but there was no use arguing. Not mine to reason why, nor mine to make reply. I was going to light a lamp to guide my feet, but my wife whispered that such a course was dangerous, as affording a target for the desperate marauder in the kitchen. So I went downstairs in my snowy nightgown, a creature of heroic blood, of proud though childlike form.

"Before retiring that night my wife had, unbeknown to me, opened the trapdoor in the kitchen and left it open, for some reason that will never be known until the sea gives up its dead. Married women are always doing such things. I walked right into the gloomy chasm and went down the cellar stairs with a harsh, grating noise that would set one's teeth on edge. It is uncomfortable enough to fall downstairs when fully dressed, but words cannot describe the anguish one experiences when rolling down a flight of steps in one's nightshirt. When I struck the concrete floor at the bottom and banged my head against an iron clothes horse, I realized that the limit had been reached. It was useless to try any longer to be head of a house.

"Hastily donning such garments as I could find in the Stygian gloom, I called down a murrian on the busy haunts and fled to the sylvan solitudes."

Quips and Quiddities

At a certain college in the north of England the male students were not permitted to visit the resident lady boarders. One day a male student was caught in the act of doing so and was courtmartialed.

The head master, addressing him said: "Well, Mr. Blank, the penalty for the first offense is 50 cents, for the second $2.50, for the third $5, and so on, up to $15."

In solemn tones the trespasser said:

"How much would a season ticket cost?"—The Argonaut.

A suburban housewife relates overhearing this conversation between her maid and the cook next door:

"How are you, Hilda?"

"I'm well; I like my yob. We got cremated cellar, cemetery plumbing, elastic lights and a hoosit."

"What's a hoosit, Hilda?"

"Oh, a bell rings. You put a thing to your ear, and say 'Hello,' and some one says 'Hello,' and you say 'Hoosit.'"

The elderly matron with the bundles, who was journeying to a point in Wisconsin and occupied a seat near the middle of the car, had fallen asleep. On the seat in front of her sat a little boy. The brakeman opened the door of the car and called out the name of the station the train was approaching. The elderly lady roused herself with a jerk and inquired hurriedly of the boy:

"Where are we, Bobby?"

"I don't know, grandma," answered the little boy. "Didn't the brakeman say something just now?"

"No, he just stuck his head inside the door and sneezed."

"Help me with these things, Bobby!" she exclaimed hurriedly. "This is Oshkosh. It's where we get off."

"What do you want?" demanded Mr. Newlywed as he confronted the tramp at the door of the bungalow, "breakfast or work?"

"Both, sir," replied the wayfarer, timidly.

"Well, eat that," returned the other savagely, handing out a biscuit and a piece of steak, "and you'll have both."

Whereupon Mrs. Newlywed glanced reproachfully at her husband, for he was giving away the first fruits of her culinary studies at the cooking school.

Success

(Kansas City Star.)

At thirty-three years of age Captain Robert Wood, of the United States army, becomes chief quartermaster of the Panama canal zone. Not only the family but the people of this city, where he was brought up, are proud of his achievement.

Now, Captain Wood has not attained a great financial success. He did not go in for that. He worked just as hard for service as he would have worked for reward. Service was his reward. The result is that his success outranks a money success.

It is entirely possible to reconstitute the fabric of "success." As long as success in any line of endeavor is measured by the money that is made, of course many men will be controlled by that standard. But almost all who win at it would rather win in the way that Captain Wood has won.

About the only satisfaction that money making brings to worth while men is when it comes as an incident to some fine service. But, for example, is James J. Hill proud of his money? No; his "empire building."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

DR. MARION MCH. HULL.

Golden Text: "To them that love God all things work together for good." Rom. 8:28.

Get a picture in your mind's eye of the caravan that left Canaan for the corn houses of Egypt. See the Egyptian wagons, the cattle, the little children, the women and servants, the men, and the old patriarch. He was prematurely old, in spite of his 130 years. He had seen a great deal of trouble in his life—the hatred of his brothers, his hasty flight, his twenty years' residence with his crafty uncle, his conflict with the Man which resulted in a lifelong lameness, his loss of his favorite wife, his grief over Joseph, and recently his anxiety because of the famine and the strange experience of his sons in their visits to Egypt—and all of this had told on him greatly so that he looked a good deal older than his years. It was hard for him to leave his home again probably for the last time, and spend his closing days in a strange country. He remembered the promise at Bethel, and also those to his father and grandfather. He hesitated about going, but at Beersheba, a place hallowed by many associations, he erected an altar and there God renewed to him the promise He had formerly made, promising that he should come back to the land of promise.

Judah was selected to lead the van to the land of Goshen. Judah had shown the essential quality of leadership—a willingness to put self out of sight.

JOSEPH AND JACOB.

The vans soon reached the palace, and Joseph in his chariot went out to meet his father. It had been more than twenty-two years since they had seen each other; both had changed considerably. It was a blessed reunion. The old father received the devoted son whom he had for many years mourned as dead; the son saw the dear old father of whom he had thought every day during his absence. I have wondered why Joseph had not taken a vacation and run back to the old home after he was elected to the office of prime minister, but I suppose he had been kept so busy with the unusual conditions that it had been impossible for him to realize his desire to do so. Both were overcome with emotion and wept on each other's neck a long while. Joseph had laid aside his dignity, entirely. In the presence of his dear old father, he was not the prime minister, but just his boy.

Then Joseph coached his brethren so that they would be sure to get the place they should. Joseph was not only a wise counseller, but he was also a very shrewd judge of men, and he knew how to work things to accomplish his end. He was not going to have so important a matter as the location of his family left to the whim of a sovereign like Pharaoh. He knew the political situation. He appreciated that Pharaoh, belonging to the shepherd kings, would be favorable to his people, and that the Egyptians hated shepherds because of having been subdued by them and because of certain disagreeable features connected with their life among the herds. He wanted his people in Goshen because of its rich pasture lands and also because they would be on the border and as far removed from the idolatrous practices of the Egyptians as possible. So he made sure of his desire being fulfilled by wisely planning beforehand.

ZAPHENATH-PAANEAH AND PHARAOH.

As soon as possible he presented his people to Pharaoh. He took only five of his brethren. I have no doubt but that they were Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah and Benjamin, leaving behind the sons of the concubines. I do not know why Pharaoh asked them immediately as to their occupation; maybe it was an account of their dress. They played their part well, just as Joseph had instructed them, with the result desired. Pharaoh turned to Joseph and said, "The whole land is before you; put them wherever you desire. Give them the best we have." This he did for Joseph's sake.

Then continuing, he said, "If there are any men of force among you, I should like them to be put in charge of my own royal herds. He was pleased with the sample of Israel's sons he had seen in Joseph; he was willing to trust other sons of such a man with his affairs. The type of training they had had was good enough to be tried again.

Thus because of what Joseph had manifested of God's nearness to him in the neverday affairs of his life, his father, and brethren who were worthy were given land and labor, the things they needed. Is the testimony you are bearing to the nearness of Christ in your life such as to commend Him to others that they may seek Him as their souls' need too?

JACOB AND PHARAOH.

Then Joseph brought his old father and presented him to his sovereign. Jacob did not come as an inferior, but as a superior. He had very little wealth, he had no worldly position, he was but the sheik of a wandering tribe of about seventy people with their flocks. But he was superior to Pharaoh because he possessed a knowledge of the most high God that made Pharaoh's position sink into insignificance. So he appeared not as a beggar, but as a blessing and commanded the blessing of God Almighty on the head of the friend of his son. And before departing he blessed him again. That blessing abode with Pharaoh all his life.

Pharaoh was struck by his appearance, and asked him how old he was. His reply indicated not only the sorrows of the past, but his glorious hope for the future. He lived in the light of his faith in God's promises and his obedience to His will. It was a noble testimony of an old saint.

Finally by the order of Pharaoh he and his people were located in the best of the land, and for seventeen years Jacob lived, died, after first blessing his sons and being carried back to Canaan for burial in fulfillment of God's promise to him.

All things had worked together for good to him, although many things had been very grievous in themselves. But with God, had allowed him to reap in him from Jacob, the heel-catcher, to Israel, one whom God rules—a prince with God; had allowed him to reap in the lives of his sons the fruit of fatherhood which he himself had sown; but had finally brought him out triumphant.

My brethren, you may have to go through Padan Aram and through Egypt, but remember that "God's in his heaven. All's right with the world." "Rest comes at last."

You Must Take Your Religion With You

A Little Sermon for Vacation Days.

By Rev. Loy Warwick

Let your light shine.—Jesus.

"Come ye apart and rest awhile." The Master Himself needed rest and recreation. He needed more than he ever took, for His work and the needy people would not let him rest.

Into the woods my Master went,
Clean for spent, for spent;
Into the woods my Master came
For spent with death and shame.

In the woods and in communion with the Father He found the balm and blessing He sought. The little gray leaves were kind to Him, the poet tells, and—

Out of the woods my Master went,
And He was well content:
Out of the woods my Master came,
Content with death and shame.

Man's body and mind need a vacation—an "off" season. But not so with his religion. The souls need rest and constant refreshing and refilling. Rest your body as you have opportunity. Learn to find rest for your soul. Rest when you need it and can get it—from your church work. But wherever you go, whatever you do, take your religion with you. You should go nowhere that your religion is not welcome. If your business and your religion do not get on well together then your business must be wrong, or you are following it in the wrong way. If your pleasures and your piety do not agree it is a sign that your pleasures are not of the proper sort. If your companions do not like your Lord then give up your companions. At least do not let them come between you and the friend that sticketh closer than a brother.

You must take your religion with you wherever you go and into all you do. It is a part of you. It is your native air, your vital breath, your character. You can not be separated from your religion if you have any of the vital sort. The truly religious man is a Christian all the time, everywhere and in all things. He is just as much a Christian in New York as he is in his home town. He is just as religious at the seaside, or the mountain resort as he is at his church or a campmeeting.

Being a Christian is not just or man's life a part. It is his whole existence. He is not religious all the time, everywhere and in everything he is not a Christian.

The Christian has as much fun as anybody. Religion never was designed to make our pleasures less. The Kingdom of God is righteous and peace and joy. But true religion gives one better feelings, tastes, emotions. It makes one hear better and see better. It loses his interest in some things when he becomes a Christian. Old things have passed away. Behold all things have become new. The Christian detects the fallacy in the devil's argument. He sees the hidden hand. The snake in the grass does not deceive him. He sees the poison in the cup before he takes the cup in his hand.

The Christian can have a holiday without making it an unholy day. He can have a feast without having death in the pot.

Let us show unto the world the more excellent way. Lead and teach yourself. Do not wear sin's halter, being God's free man. Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made you free. Make no compromise with error. Never hesitate to declare yourself wherever you go. You need not pose or "preach." But let your light shine. Stand up for Jesus. Lift high His royal banner. A Christian is the noblest work of God. 'Tis only noble to be good. The times are mightily in need of men and women of courage to stand for the right and rebuke the wrong. The children of evil are often wiser than the children of light. Sin is not afraid nor ashamed to declare itself.

There are churches in every place. There are seven days in every week of the year and one of them is God's day. We are commanded to keep it holy. Nothing sets aside that law. It is just as much Sunday in the city as it is in the country. The vacation Sunday is less holy than the last Sunday you spent at home. Sin is sin, right is right and God is God here and there and everywhere. And here and there and everywhere let's be true to Him who is always true to us. If you know any better way than this please write me at once, for I need all I can get to help me live a good life. Don't you?

(2.) How old was Jacob when he emigrated wit hhis family to Goshen, in Egypt, and how many of them went there?

(3.) Verse 29—Women kiss and embrace each other, fathers embrace their younger sons and daughters, why, therefore, is it not fitting and right for men who love one another to do the same thing? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(5.) Would you say that very good old men, when their hearts are filled with joy, would prefer to die?

(6.) Verses 31-34—In what way can you show the wisdom of Joseph in informing Pharoah of the arrival of his father and brethren?

(7.) What particular significance was there in being careful to tell Pharaoh, that they were shepherds?

(8.) Why were shepherds "an abomination unto the Egyptians?"

(10.) Would Joseph's selection be any reflection on the other brothers who were not selected to appear before Pharaoh?

(11.) Of two brothers, both good men and equal in industry, one with twice the ability of the other, which is entitled to the greater praise and why?

(12.) Verses 3-4—Providing it is honest, why should no man be ashamed of his occupation?

(13.) What policy had the five brothers in mind when they asked Pharaoh's permission to dwell in Goshen, seeing he had invited them to come and dwell there?

(14.) Verses 5-6—What motives were at work in Pharaoh, or what influence was being brought to bear on him to stir such great generosity to him?

(15.) Which was under the greater obligation to the other, and why, Pharaoh or Joseph?

(16.) Verses 7-10—What do you understand by the expression "and Jacob blessed Pharaoh," and what effect would such a blessing have?

(17.) Has a man of God today the same authority to bless another man as Jacob had, and will the blessing be equally effective? Give your reasons.

(18.) Verses 11-12—Was Joseph under any moral or other obligation to act this generous part toward his father and brethren? Why?

(19.) What is your opinion of the man, who with the ability to help permits his parents and members of their family to suffer want?

(20.) Verses 28-31—Why is death to an aged good man as natural as going to sleep when we are tired?

(21.) How do you account for it that Jacob was not content until Joseph had sworn to bury him in the burying ground of his fathers?

Motorcycle Riders Get Busy at Motordrome Saturday Afternoon

Motordrome Now Open

Ninety Miles Is Promised In Big Meet

Riders Have Their Machines Tuned Up in Grand Style, Admission Prices 25 and 50 Cents—Start at 4 o'Clock

With every indication now that Jack Prince has beaten the weather man to it and with all plans completed there seems nothing in the way now to interfere with the opening of the Atlanta motordrome this afternoon.

The weather is ideal for the meet. The cold, rainy weather that prevented the other attempts at a contest has given way to real summer.

The frequent postponements have made it possible to complete such preparations for the affair as would not have been possible if it had come off on the day originally scheduled.

The motordrome is absolutely completed and ready. The riders have all tuned up their machines to perfection. They have trained steadily for two weeks, to accustom themselves to the terrible strain of racing at high speed on a banked track.

At 4 o'clock the first race will go on. The doors will be open at 3 and the riders will do enough preliminary tuning up to make it interesting to the early comers. Cars will run from Five Points to the track at brief intervals. Ample parking space is provided for automobiles.

The motordrome will be amply policed, and everything will be run in a way that will undoubtedly establish the new track as one of the high class amusement resorts of the southland.

Nine races will be run this afternoon. The main events are the Atlanta Sweepstakes, the Motordrome Derbee and a special match race. Heats of one, two, three and five miles will be run. Nine riders will take part.

Sensational sport is looked for this afternoon. The riders have been making ninety miles an hour speeds day after day on the steeply-banked, four-turn track, and can keep it up indefinitely. Their machines are tuned up to the top notch. They are hungry for victory and the fruits of victory. They will race like demons this afternoon.

Yesterday, being Friday, the 13th, and 1913, at that, none of the professional riders went on the track. But it was a big afternoon for the amateurs. And of course there was a big spill, or rather a series, for almost at the same moment Leo Peck threw a back tire and engine trouble on the part of Houston Crane and Harry Glenn sent their machines back jumping around the track. Peck took an awful bumping, but luckily was not seriously hurt. Crane jumped from his machine, going seventy-five miles an hour, but was not seriously hurt. Harry Glenn, being a more experienced rider, managed to slow down without serious damage.

The two riders who were hurt are reported in good trim this morning, and are ready to go into a special match race this afternoon if one is put on for novices.

1,000 Battles Rarely Taken

There are five men in the history of the major leagues who have won 1,000 games, Anson, of the old Chicago team; Delehanty, of Boston; Fred Clark, of Pittsburg; Connie Mack, of the Athletics, and John J. McGraw, of the New York Giants. Until Memorial day this year there were but four. McGraw was added to the list on that day. Chance was on his way to the 1,000-mark at full speed until they handed him the Yanks.

Heading the Cubs, Chance would have achieved his 1,000th victory before the close of 1914, as he had already run down 750 victories or more. Traveling at the rate the Yanks are going he will reach the 1,000 mark in 1932—which is not a matter of opinion but of cold-blooded mathematical fact, as precisely outlined by the laws of simple addition.

Detroit may stage world's skating tourney next fall. It will be an indoor event on rollers.

SWEENEY FIGHTS CHANCE; RUSS FORD GOT IN BAD

Manager Frank Chance has it in for Russell Ford and Ed Sweeney, ex-Cracker battery now with the New York Americans, if reports count for anything. This pair has been on probation for some time past, finally managing to hold their jobs by the clever way they worked in the past two games, up to which they had been giving fake bushers.

NOW only was Sweeney going rotten, many making the claim that he was playing for his release, but he also had a run-in with Manager Chance in the club house. In this altercation, states the Report, Sweeney was soundly thrashed and Manager Chance declared himself ruler of the roost.

During the past season more rumors of players "laying down" have gone the rounds than ever before in the history of the game. And in each case it has been one of the star performers accused of the lay down. First it was Hal Chase, that peerless first sacker who was so long with the New York Americans, later it was Russell Ford and Ed Sweeney of the same club, and now it is Tyrus Cobb, Detroit's star player.

The "lay down" report concerning Chase proved so effective that he was shifted to the Chicago White Stockings. In return Chance picked up two mighty good performers in Borden and Benz. As yet nothing has developed from the reports concerning Ford and Sweeney. While with Atlanta back in the pennant winning days of Ford and Sweeney had the reputation of being the most hard working of players. They were always out working for the club and their friends down here won't believe that they are throwing down. Frank Chance or any one else.

ATLANTA IS PUSHED BACK

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 14.—The Lookouts were on the big wagon in their game here Friday with the Crackers and easily defeated the team that has so consistently won from them this year. They were away ahead when Atlanta's big inning was due and though the Crackers made a brave effort to hedge and get to cover with a few tallies there was nothing doing and the Noogas got by with the big margin of seven runs, the final count being 8 to 1 in favor of Chattanooga.

Dent and Brady were hit at will and the Lookouts were there with the will. They were determined to get all that was coming to them and hit up the Atlanta pitchers coming and going. Sommers pitched good ball until the last three innings when he began to weaken, but the locals had all the confidence in the world and the rally netted only one tally. Bailey was the only Cracker that could get next to Sommers, he getting a double and two singles.

Kid Elberfeld was put out of the game for talking back to the umpire. He and Smith had a little run in and Rudderham called the Kid who in turn said a few words to the Ump. He was finally put out of the game. Chattanooga got 14 hits while the Crackers got only 6. Both teams played errorless ball.

Fred Falkenberg Most Sensational Of All the "Come Back" Flingers

FRED FALKENBERG.

Of all the great come backs of the past few years none have a thing on Fred Falkenberg, the elongated hurler of the Cleveland Naps who right now is setting the bunch on fire by his sensational hurling stunts. Though a bit old at the game Falky is now crafty than ever and with his fadeaway he is going like another Mathewson.

Falkenberg managed to win nine straight games before he was finally stopped. And in these nine fights he was not riding any horse shoe. He was twirling jam up ball, winning because the other team could not find him opportunely.

When the Cleveland Naps were shaken up last season Falkenberg was one o fthe first to go. He was thought to be about all in so far as the major league was concerned and was shipped to the Cleveland farm at Toledo. Here he perfected the famous fad-away and when he came back to the Naps this season he was able to stand the gaff and show some real pitching. His fade-away is working about as well as the one used by Big Six Mathewson and with anything like his present clip Falky will keep the Naps right in the race.

Boxers Hurt As Ropes Fall

Main Bout Is Not Completed, Britt Wins Over Pries in Good Scrap

What promised to be a good boxing match, so far as ten-round heavyweight scraps go, was rudely interrupted in the third round of the Jim Savage-Sailor White bout at the auditorium Friday evening when the two boxers fell through the ropes to the floor and Savage was so badly injured that it was impossible for him to continue with the match. The two preliminary matches, one between Mike Saul and Terry Nelson and the other a grudge affair between Spider Britt and Mayer Pries, however, gave the fans a run for their money, though all naturally were disappointed at not seeing the big boys battle it out.

During the two short rounds that Savage and White boxed there was but little real scrapping, each feeling out the other with a view of learning the attack and defense, and when the match ended in the third round no one had seen any real boxing. Just from what was seen it was apparent that Savage is much the better boxer, with White possessing a good punch but not sufficient science to get it over very often.

Savage looked just about as good as when he won over Al Kubiak in a local ring. He is very shifty and the best White could do was to miss a couple of swings and then rush to a clinch. At that Savage put in two or three good blows. The fall from the ring occurred during a clinch. The two boxers, almost wrestling, pushed to the north end of the ring and when the 400 pounds hit the ropes they gave way and tumbled the boxers to the floor some five feet away. Savage hit on the back of his neck, with White crashing down upon him with the result that it took some minutes to revive him.

After being brought around Savage returned to the ring and was willing to try to continue the match, but the club physician refused to listen to any such talk. Savage had badly wrenched his neck and to continue the match would doubtless have badly injured him. White was unhurt by the fall.

The first-Pries bout, which went seven rounds before Referee Woodruff gave the match to Britt after Pries had been thrice floored, was the feature bout of the evening. For the first five rounds this match was as pretty as anyone could wish. Both boys went at it hammer and tongs and there was just about all the action one could ask for. In the sixth Pries began to tire and from then until the end it was all Britt.

Spider Britt and Mayer Pries have held a grudge towards each other and Friday night was their chance for settling it. Pries started off like a winner but a few good body blows took all the zinger from him and Britt romped home an easy winner. Pries did not seem to care to mix it with Britt after the fifth round, being willing to stand off and chop at his opponent.

Despite the suddenness with which Pries dropped out of the running the match was a good one.

Mike Saul, the boxer you can't put out, tried the "come-back" stunt in a ten-round go with Terry Nelson and came out with a draw. Mike showed his same old willingness to mix it all the time and if he had not been over in the ring as a participant in a match for over a year he acquitted himself most creditably and deserved the draw.

It is hard for anyone to put up a showy bout in boxing with Terry Nelson. He is the kind that believes in boxing in the clinches and rushes to a clinch so often that the spectators do not get the advantage of the many blows which are landed. In the match Friday Saul managed to keep Nelson away from him fairly well and the bout made a hit. Saul used his left often and with telling effect, while Nelson put most of his good blows to the wind. Neither had any big lead any one rounds, it being about half and half all the way.

JUST NOTES

New York handed the little end of the score to the Detroit Tigers in their game on Friday. The game was very exciting, Ford and Dubuc having a great pitchers' battle. The final count was 4 to 2 in favor of New York. Ford's support faltered in the fifth when singles by Cobb and Gainer were followed by wild throws by Midkiff and Daniels. Midkiff was spiked in the hand by Bush, but was not seriously hurt. Cobb got two hits out of four times up.

Hits for extra bases in the ninth Friday enabled Boston to tie the score, 6-6, and later in the thirteenth St. Louis went down in defeat by the margin of one run. O'Brien, for Boston, was pitching good ball until the eighth, when he weakened, allowing four singles, passed three men and on a sacrifice fly the score jumped to five runs more for the St. Louis team. Speaker and Wallace were the batting stars of the game, each getting three hits out of five times up. St. Louis got thirteen hits, while Boston got only twelve.

Another thirteen-inning game was pulled off on Friday, the one under consideration being the big game between Cleveland and Philadelphia, the Mackmen finally winning out in the thirteenth with a two-bagger by Barry and a Texas by Schang, backed up by a wild throw by Kahler, allowing Barry to score with the winning run. The game was one of the most exciting ever. Cleveland got six hits, while the Mackmen got seven. This was considered the most important series of the year for the Mackmen, and if they can win the series it will mean that they are away above everything in the race for the rag. Walsh, for Philadelphia, got three hits out of five times up.

Brennan, for Philadelphia, was invincible in the game with St. Louis Friday while Harmon was in his when hits meant runs. Philadelphia finally winning by the score of 5 to 2. In the second inning, Cathers, after catching Cravath's long fly, crashed into the fence, fracturing his left arm. He will be out of the game for several days. Philadelphia got ten hits and made one error, while St. Louis got six hits and played errorless ball.

In a game that was marked by the slowness of it and the injuries received by the players, Chicago Friday defeated Brooklyn in an eleven-inning contest by the score of 7 to 6. Allen in the tenth was injured trying to field a bunt by Evers. Zimmerman was sent to the club house for arguing, and Arch was hit on the finger by a foul tip. Brooklyn made seven errors, Cutshaw, the second baseman, making four out of the seven. Brooklyn got nine hits and Chicago ten.

Boston bunched hits in their game with Cincinnati Friday and won the game from the plucky boys by the score of 6 to 4. Ames was knocked out of the box in the first inning. Myers, for Boston, got three hits out of five times up. Cincinnati played errorless ball, while Boston made a pair of errors.

The Pittsburg game with New York Friday was featured by the first active appearance of Fred Clarke as a player. Despite this fact Pittsburg lost to the Giants by the score of 3 to 2. On fourteen hits New York only scored three runs. New York played errorless ball, while Pittsburg made two errors. Byrne, for Pittsburg, got three hits out of four up, while Myers, for New York, got four out of four up.

Chicago won from Washington on Friday in a very exciting game. The final count was 6 to 4 in favor of Chicago. Chicago knocked Hughes out of the box in the third and scored four runs, but when Mullin was put in there was nothing doing in the sensational scoring line. Washington made three errors, while Chicago made only one.

Again Troop 3 Wins Good Game

Troop 3 kept their 1,000 percentage Monday by winning the game with Troop 1 at Fort McPherson. The game was a very slow one and there was a lot of arguing. Only seven innings were played.

The following is the box score:

PLAYERS ARE FINED.

NEW YORK, June 14.—President Lynch, of the National baseball league, suspended and fined $25 each yesterday Manager Tinker, of the Cincinnati club, and Second Baseman Knabe, of the Philadelphia team, for fighting during the game at Cincinnati Wednesday. Both men will be eligible to play next Tuesday.

Even Betting On Polo Game

American Team Is Weakened, Britishers Have Added New Strength

NEW YORK, June 14.—Conditions were favorable today for another thrilling battle in the international polo cup series. The weather was ideal and the field green at Meadowbrook, L. I., was in fine shape for fast work.

The gossip among the 20,000 or more enthusiasts who began flocking to the course this morning was considerably more hopeful from an American viewpoint than when the crowds turned out on Tuesday, dubious over the prospect of a successful defense of the cup over the English challengers.

The assurance given by the one defeat of the Englishmen turned betting from the original odds of 10 to 4 in favor of the Englishmen to even, and the plain sport-loving majority, regardless of bets, it seemed certain of a close and exciting struggle.

English enthusiasts were full of hope, and in fact their confidence was almost entirely restored by a shift in the line-up. The change is a substitute of F. M. Freake for Captain Noel Edwards at No. 2. Edwards' work in Tuesday's contest was not regarded as up to his standard. Freake has displayed a wonderful control of the ball.

The American line-up is unchanged from that with which Tuesday's game was finished after L. E. Stoddard had substituted for "Monty" Waterbury, when the latter was injured, except for a shift in positions.

The formation for today was:

American—L. E. Stoddard, No. 1; L. Waterbury, No. 2; H. P. Whitney, No. 3; Devereaux Milburn, No. 4.

English—Captain Cheape, No. 1; F. M. Freake, No. 2; Captain Ritson, No. 3; Captain Lockett, No. 4.

Substitutes—American, R. L. A. Montague, M. Stevenson, J. S. Phipps, C. C. Humsey, R. L. Agassis. Great Britain Captain Edwards, Lord Wodenhouse.

As possession of the cup is decided by the best two out of three games, an American victory today would end the series.

THE SPORTLIGHT
BY GRANTLAND RICE

AMERICA'S "BIG FOUR."

Yes, they had faded and left us forever;
Yes, they had passed from their reign of the green;
Once they were there with the stuff that was clever,
Once they were tipped as a fistclass machine;
Wasn't it pitiful how they had faded?
Wasn't it grevious the way that they broke?
Out of condition and torn up and jaded?
(Note unto Albion—"This is a joke").

Yes, we were framed for a regular trimming;
Watching the cup as they took it aboard;
Sadly we looked with our weary eyes dimming.
Nothing to drink from again but the gourd;
Vanished the "pink" from their erythchic condition,
Broken and battered and ready to croak;
Faltering, facing the drear dissolution—
(Tip unto Albion—"This is a joke").

Which reminds that there is still aonther polo battle ahead. Perhaps wo more. (Business of reserving further lawfter.)

As it strikes us the Big Four have gone back—gone back like Matty and Wagner. They were all through like Lajoie, Eddie Plank and Chief Bender. They couldn't do a thing but ride, drive, fight and swat the pill. Not a thing in the world.

A REMINDER.

The American Polo Four reminds us in many ways of the Phillies. They ought to have cracked, but they didn't. They were in no shape to keep going, but they are still there.

The Phillies "haven't anything" either: Nothing but a bunch of batters, pitchers and fielders. How the bally gehenna can they expect to win a pennant with nothing but this?

THE TEUTONIC UPHEAVAL.

The German ambuscade is becoming general. Messrs. Wagner, Zimmerman, Lobert, Schultz, Hoblitzel, etc., have shown us long since that the Teutonic element in baseball was not to be treated with disdain. Now in addition to that we have a Mr. Schmidt tearing St. Andrews open, and still another Germanic blend barring our way into the Davis cup tennis finals. Isn't there some sort of an "alien land law" that can set things right?

As adeptly and as skillfully as Messrs. Waterbury, Millburn, etc., crashed into the wooden pill, we couldn't help but think in the thick of the rallies how much better we would feel about America's chances if Frank Baker was only there with one good crack at the bounding sphere. Isn't there some way they can ring him in, if the showdown comes, permitting him to go afoot or perhaps mount a motor cycle?

AFTER WOOD'S RECORD.

Walter Johnson is now setting a faster clip than ever Wood was able to set last season. The Boston premier won thirty-three and dropped five. Johnson to date has won thirteen and lost two. He may not beat the Wood mark for wins and defeats, but he is on the verge of setting a shutout mark that has never been approached. He has eight shutouts to his credit, and the campaign has some four months to run. At his present rate the Washington star will yield the smallest percentage of earned runs and his ever established—the last feat in all around pitching efficiency.

Just as Chance gets his infield established, Rollie Zeider springs a delayed bunion and is out ten days. If it isn't one thing with the Yanks it's something worse. So far the only athletes on their roster who have been injured are Chance, Sweeney, Derrick, Caldwell, Warhop, Midkiff and eight or ten more. We thought Cleveland had the world's championship for accidents, with the Phillies running second. But compared to the Yanks they were iron-sinewed with steel frames.

WEILMAN IS BEST SOUTHPAW UNEARTHED IN MANY YEARS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Carl Weilman, the big southpaw pitcher of the St. Louis Americans, looks like one of the best southpaws that have broken into fast company in a long while.

Weilman's greatest assets are his fast ball and his control. Carl has a control that is marvelous for a portsider.

In addition to being a hurler of class, Weilman fields his position well and can hit to beat the band.

Weilman is the tallest man in baseball today, measuring six feet five and one-half inches in his stocking feet. With an ordinary pair of shoes on he attains the altitude of six feet seven inches. In spite of the sparseness of his build he weighs 193 pounds. His age is twenty-two years. As his habits are exceptionally good he ought to have a long and prosperous career if his future performances live up to what he has done so far.

Weilman got his start in baseball through a mere accident. Carl is a machinist by trade, and for several years worked in a big shop in the thriving manufacturing town of Hamilton, O., twenty-five miles north of Cincinnati. It was his habit to lay off on Saturday afternoons to play first base for a semi-professional team in Hamilton. Sunday morning he would take a train for Liberty, Ind., thirty miles from Hamilton, and pitch for the Liberty outfit every Sabbath afternoon.

One day a baseball goods man arrived in Hamilton with the purpose of unloading a few balls, bats and gloves on a local firm. While "gassing" with the Hamilton dealer the salesman happened to pick up a score book. As he glanced through the scores he saw the name Weilman with great frequency.

Happening to make some refark about Carl, he started the Hamilton man on a long recital of the marvelous feats of the Hamilton bean pole. The upshot of the whole matter was that the traveling salesman sent for Weilman and asked him if he would like to have a job in the Blue Grass league. When the pitcher replied in the affirmative the salesman made good his word and landed Carl a job with the Mayesville team.

Weilman made good from the jump, winning sixteen games and losing nine. In addition to pitching every four or five days he played about twenty-five games in the outfield. His batting average was .352 for the season.

Weilman lost the best game he pitched by a score of 4 to 2, although he permitted but two hits.

The Brownie hurler tells some interesting stories of the Blue Grass league.

"Some days we would have as many as eighty people in the stands," he declared. "I know there were that many, for I used to count them between innings.

"Lots of people wonder how I manage to sleep in a Pullman berth," he continued. "It's easy enough if you only know how. When I get ready to go to bed I open the window, stick one leg outside and let the other protrude in the aisle of the car. I was never troubled with sleeping cars down in the Blue Grass league. They don't have such things down there.

"The hardest ride we ever had between towns was in an auto truck. We were due to start a double header at Frankfort at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There was no train, so the manager got us all out of bed at 5 o'clock in the morning and bundled us into a big electric truck. We made fifty miles in five hours and a half in this way and then hopped onto a trolley car for three hours more of jolting. We got to Frankfort at 1:30 and started the double header on time at 2 o'clock. I guess that's going some."

RED SOX RECALL THEIR NO-HIT STAR.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, June 14. Pitcher Mosely, of the local Interstate club, who pitched a no-hit game here last week, was recalled to day by the Boston American league club.

GIRL CHAMPION THROWER; CHAMP AT ALL BIG GAMES

MISS ELIZABETH A. HARDIN.

Miss Elizabeth A. Hardin, the Vassar freshman, beat the shotput record established by Miss Inez Milholland, the strenuous suffragist, making a new record of 32 feet, 3-4 inches.

Miss Milholland had thrown a basketball 77 feet. Miss Hardin tossed it 80 feet. She rounded out her remarkable performance by throwing a baseball 205 feet 7 inches, thus breaking the record held by Dorothy Smith, of 204 feet, 5 inches. Miss Hardin's father is inclined to dismiss lightly the subject of his daughter's prowess. "Elizabeth is just a healthy, vigorous girl who loves outdoor life and is filled with the exhilaration of youth," he said at his Newark, N. J., home. "From her childhood she has excelled in athletic achievements. This was very largely due to the fact that she was her two brothers' companion and chum."

BURNS WAS ONCE IN BAD IN DETROIT FIGHT GAME

DETROIT, Mich., June 14.—Here's a little story that tells of history doing a repeating stunt in the boxing ring.

In the case of Tommy Burns, Detroiter, who was arrested in connection with the death of Luther McCarty, at Calgary, there is a double repetition. His protege, Arthur Pelky, figures in both.

Burns, early in 1904, virtually ended the life of Ben O'Grady, a Buffalo pugilist, in the ring of the D. A. C., and thereby dealt a death blow to Detroit boxing. A Pelky ends the life of McCarthy, probably killing the game in Canada and possibly stopping glove contests at Windsor club.

Burns quit Detroit because of the O'Grady fight, and will quit ring affairs, if not his freedom, as a result of the McCarty accident. After beating O'Grady he changed his name from Brusso to Burns, left Detroit, and only once afterward boxed here.

That was with Hugo Kelly at Light Infantry armory. The O'Grady affair had made him timid about the city. That fight he put the Buffalo man down in the third round. O'Grady was taken to the hospital. He remained there a couple of weeks, then was sent home. At last reports he was a helpless paralytic, ever hovering on the brink of the unknown.

Burns was born in Ontario, at Hanover, of German parentage. Pelky also is a Canadian, Chatham being his reputed birth place, though Massachusetts has claimed him since he entered the fighting game. He was a secondrater until Burns took hold of him.

Burns is wealthy and will fight what ever case is brought. He came home from Australia with more than $100,000 in his possession. He has done well in Calgary. Recently he bought a piece of property for $45,000, and sold it in a short time for $90,000. He has done well, financially, and otherwise since he quit Detroit nine years ago.

Large Entries to Golf Meet

CHICAGO, June 14.—Reports from Secretary Willard, of the Western Golf association, indicate a large entry for the Tom Morris memorial trophy competition, which will be played on Monday throughout the country. More than thirty clubs have announced their intention to compete and several others will be heard from, it is expected, before the entry list closes on Saturday night.

Each club will nominate eight men to play against par of the course. The official distances by which par scores are computed follows:

Up to 223 yards par is 3; from 226 to 425 yards, 4; from 426 to 600 yards, 5; from 601 yards and upward, 6.

Lundgren a Gull

MOBILE, Ala., June 14.—Carl Lundgren, at one time a star pitcher in the major leagues, and with the victorious Chicago Cubs in 1908, has been signed by Manager Flinn, of the local Southern league club, and will get in the game at an early date. Lundgren has been coaching the Princeton team.

Johnson May Go Free

CHICAGO, June 14.—Jack Johnson, negro heavyweight prize fighter, obtained five more days of freedom when Federal Judge Carpenter Thursday granted his counsel until June 23 to prepare a writ of error to bring the negro's case before the United States court of appeals. Johnson was sentenced to a year and a day in the state penitentiary when he was convicted of violating the Mann white slave act

Women's Meet Decided

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 13.—Miss Edna Wildey, of Plainfield, N. J., and Miss Dorothy Green, of Philadelphia, were the winners in the semi-final round of the championship singles in the women's national lawn tennis tournament Thursday at St. Martins. They will meet in the final round tomorrow and the winner will oppose Miss Mary Brown, of Los Angeles, for the championship.

'Nooga Owners Spending Coin

Effort Being Made to Place Good Team in Race for the Flag

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 14.—The continuous changes being made by Elberfeld to remove slight imperfections from his 1913 Lookout machine are but further evidence of the sincere belief of the local pilot that the Noogans are still positive factors in the pennant race. The Gulls are no more conceded the bunting in this burg than is Cincinnati in Boss Lynch's circuit.

The latest additions to the local array are Pitcher Howell, the star hurler of the Louisiana State college, and his battery mate, Breaux, of the Jefferson college, at Convent, La. In this Damon and Pythias combination Elberfeld believes he has secured a sharpshooting duo that will prove a sensation in the Southern league as the O'Toole-Kelly combination in the big ring.

President Andrews has been in touch with the two collegians in question since early this spring and negotiations have been under way all that time. Howell and Breaux were discovered by Hugh Jennings while the Tigers were training at Monroe and the Detroit pilot advised Andrews when in this city for his exhibition string to grab the two youngsters at the first opportunity.

To make room for Howell, Forrest More was sold to the Nashville Vols, while Charley Moran left room for Breaux. Because of lack of condition, voluntary and involuntary, Moran was of practically no use to the club. To the local laymen More appeared to be in as good condition as ever in his long career, but Elberfeld was of the opinion that Forrest had outlived his period of highest efficiency, and no howl was made over the regretted passing of the dean of the staff. After the showing of Chappelle in Atlanta Elberfeld's judgment will always be accepted without comment by local fanatics. More came to the Lookouts in 1910 and was one of the most popular athletes that ever graced a local uniform.

With Graff on third, filling the hole left by the injury of Jimmy Gillespie, who is rapidly recovering, and Breaux to share Street's burden, Elberfeld is now of the opinion that he should worry especially with Covaleskie, Sommers, Kroh, Grimes and Howell to look after the mound. All other points in the 1913 machine have been O. K. since Carl Flick replaced the veteran, Otto Jordan, at second.

BUT FEW FAN COBB; HITS HARD AND SURE

Statistics Show That Only a Small Number of Hurlers Have Cobb's Number

Admirers of Tyrus Raymond Cobb have a right to be proud of the record amassed by the Georgia Peach during the first month o ftie present campaign. Participating in twenty-four games, of which his team won eleven, Cobb hit safely in twenty combats and in one of these it should be remembered that he was an added starter and got a chance to bat only once, which opportunity he improved by poling a sacrifice fly.

The gunners who slipped ciphers into the southerner's base hit column were Ray Keating and Ray Fisher, of the Highlanders, on May 7 and 8, respectively; Harry White and Bill Lange, of the White Sox, on May 4, and Tom Hughes and Tom Drohan, of the Senators, on May 16.

In the score of contests in which Cobb hit safely he obtained 32 singles, three doubles and three triples, his batting average from April 29 to May 28, inclusive, being .475. He has made three hits five times this season, two hits eight times and one hit seven times. His best record in the way of consecutive clouting came in the games of May 19 and 20, with the Athletics, when he got six hits in the same number of trips to the plate.

Tyrus Raymond, who seems bent on carrying off the Chalmers American league trophy for the third time, has put the finishing touches to fourteen of the Tigers' tallies, sending in seven on clean hits, four on aerial sacrifice and three on infield outs. He is not the Tigers' leading batter-in- of runs as yet, for Bobby Veach, woh has played in ten more contests, has driven in four more counters. On the percentage basis, however, Cobb outranks Veach as a timely thumper.

Cobb faced thirty American league pitchers from April 29 to May 28, inclusive, and only four men succeeded in fanning him. Bob Russell, of the White Sox, whiffed Tyrus on May 3; Ray Keating, of the Highlanders, struck him out twice on May 7 (that day the Dixie demon complained his eyes bothered him), Buck O'Brien, of the Red Sox, claimed Ty as a strike-out victim on May 13 and twelve days later Walter Leverenz, of the Browns, set him down via the strike-out line.

Cobb has drawn seventeen passes in twenty-four games and has been successful in twelve out of sixteen steals he has essayed. The men who turned him back when he tried to steal were Henry, of Washington, twice; Carrigan, of Boston, once, and Lapp, of Philadelphia, once.

New Records In Swimming

HONOLULU, June 14.—In a swimming meet here Wednesday under amateur athletic union rules, Duke Kahanamoku, the world's champion, swam a hundred yards in 55 1-5 seconds and 220 yards in 2 minutes, 34 2-5 seconds. According to the announcement of officials in charge of the contests, the performances constituted new world's records.

Mrs. Ruth Stacker, aged 19, covered 50 yards in 31 seconds. This was claimed as a new record.

Johnson Sees Capitol

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Page boys in the senate wing of the capitol yesterday looked with awe on a spot immediately in front of the vice president's rostrum. It was hallowed ground. Only yesterday Walter Johnson, permier pitcher of the Americans league, and his two mates on the Washington baseball team, Robert Groom, pitcher, and Clyde Milan, speedy centerfielder, had stood upon the carpet and actually had shaken hands with the boys.

Colonel Edwin A. Halsey, in charge of the force of page boys, was on hand early today to round up his youngsters to keep enough of them away from the hall game to meet the requirements of senators who might need messenger. The ball players were on a sightseeing tour of the capitol when the boys spied them.

FROM present indications it looks like we will not have any real summer this year, but, if it does turn warm insects will multiply by the thousands. Quite a number of people have been bothered with mites this year. They are so easily gotten rid of by thoroughly spraying and painting the premises with Asgaco spray until it is not much trouble to keep them down. Lice seem to be more troublesome and harder to keep under control than any kind of insects, and the best way possible to rid your premises of these pests is by dipping, but this should not be done until we have some warm weather and a warm hot day should always be selected to do this work. No little chickens should be dipped until after they are fully feathered, and any chickens that you expect to use for table use within two or three weeks should not be dipped as they will taste of the disinfectant that is used for this purpose. The main object in dipping is to apply something that the odor will remain on the feathers and on the bird's body so as to be obnoxious to lice or mites, and naturally anything made strong enough could be tasted easily in the flesh of the chicken if used for table purposes.

There is one thing about dipping, if the right kind of materials are used it not not only kills the lice that are on the chickens, but it kills all the nits and will keep them clean for several months. This cannot be said of painting them because insect powders will only kill the lice that are alive and come in contact with it. Others will soon hatch from the eggs and they have to be dusted every week to keep down insects. Therefore, dipping is as much more effective, better and more lasting. Two men can easily dip five hundred chickens in one day, and three dippings during the year are usually sufficient. It is a good idea to change the water for every one hundred chickens because it will become very much soiled and will naturally leave white birds soiled if filthy water is used. In mixing the dips it is best to use tepid water, and a small amount of Pearline should be mixed with it, say one-half package to fifteen gallons of water. This will soften the water and make the product mix and not float on top of the water. All of the dipping preparations advertised in The Journal are good and effective, and have the same desired effects. Usually one part of the straight fluid to fifty to seventy-five parts water according to the age of the chickens, is he proper way to mix it to get best results. Old chickens should have at least one part cip to fifty parts water, and young chickens one to seventy-five to one hundred parts water. Young chickens are not so heavily feathered.

These same dips are the kind that will get rid of lice and ticks on hogs and cattle and horses, and when used in dipping vats or with spray pumps, or thoroughly wash animals you can rid them of ticks and lice the same as you can chickens. Usually dipping vats are used for this purpose so that a hog or cow when they dive off in the vat will go under head and all and every spot is covered. That is the main trouble in dipping chickens. Lots of people do not thoroughly so this work and if any feathers or parts of the chicken are not thoroughly wet or dipped the lice or mits will not be killed unless this is thoroughly done. The proper way to dip a chicken is to catch the legs in the left hand, placing the thumb around the right hand knee joint and the little finger and the next finger around the knee joint of the other leg, the other fingers between the legs, and the body of the fowl resting in the hand. By holding the chicken this way and catching it by the head with right hand, the thumb and forefinger covering the nostrils and the second finger under the beak the chicken can be dipped under the water, pulling the head through the water first, the body following, and by releasing the head with the right hand and still continue to hold the bird under the water with the left hand the feathers can be lifted with right hand from different parts of the bird's body and thoroughly soaked or saturated to be sure to wet every part of the feathers, the chicken's head remaining out of the water as it will be thoroughly wet when first pulled through. After this is done the feathers should be squeezed reasonably dry, and by catching the bird on each side of the body with each hand over the thigh and allowing the bird to fan its wings it will loosen the feathers and throw much of the water off of the body and will dry out quicker than if simply pressed down gently without fanning in this way.

There are but few people who are willing to go to the trouble to dip their birds properly and keep their poultry houses clean. Those who are not are not fit to keep chickens and should not be allowed to have them. But, if these methods are used in the keeping of poultry it will add thousands of dollars to the increase production of eggs and to the profitable returns to be derived from your fowls. It is one of the essentials in the successful keeping of poultry, and as so many different valuable dips are had so cheaply and conveniently there is no excuse for a person allowing their fowls to be infested with insects. Dipping three times a year will keep any flock clean if it is properly done. It certainly will add a big revenue to your income. This is properly looked after. It is one of the essentials with poulery, just as tick eradication is to the cattle industry.

Yours very truly,

George Lee Ramsey

A sudden increase of inquiries which agents have noticed for the past ten days or two weeks is resulting in actual transactions, and some very important ones is expected during the next few days.

For the Continental Land company to Mrs. L. B. Cheek, two lots on Atlanta avenue, 50x190 each, for $1,600.

BUILDING ON PEACHTREE.

Ben J. Massell has started the erection of a three-story business building at No. 445 Peachtree street, on the east side of the street between Pine street and Merritts avenue.

The building will cost $12,000 and it will occupy a space 21x100.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

Real estate men who are members of the Atlanta Real Estate board went out in force to the Cold Spring cut grounds early this afternoon to a barbecue.

The fine weather drew a large attendance, and the occasion was purely sociable, catables and drinkables taking the place of shop talk.

The barbecue was substituted for recent monthly dinners, and the change was given a fine welcome by the real estate men.

WOMEN OF THE PRESENT—AND FINANCE.

BY JOHN H. OSKISON

Banking for the average community is a kind of housekeeping—financial housekeeping. It means taking up with a great variety of people a lot of personal problems. These problems happen to be financial, but in the bulk they are no less personal than such problems as choosing the finest school for the daughter or the right sort of a community to bring the son up in. Indeed, such intimate family problems are often intertwined with the financing problems which the community banker has to face.

The foregoing paragraph sems rather vague, as I read it over, but I let it stand as the explanation which I worked out in my own mind for a number of items of banking news which have come under my eyes lately.

These items concern women who are going into the banking business, or some development of those already in. Miss Josie MacCormack, of Moran, Kan., is one of the latest to graduate into a cashier's job. It was said of her that her work in behalf of the bank was so good that when the cashier's place became vacant there was no other name considered. To qualify she had to take examination. Probably she had under the present commissioner this examination is no mere formality.

In mid-May, the first convention of the Texas Women Bankers met in Dallas. It was planned at the meeting of the regular Texas Bankers Association, and it was found that the number of women who are bank officials in the state are quite large enough to justify the organization.

A woman has explained this matter of woman's invasion of the financial field—

...is direction is what the girls should have. It has been withheld from them partly by their brothers and by...

Women have high ideals of honesty and integrity—they feel responsibility more keenly than men." The best bankers are those of whom that may truthfully be said.

SPORTS FOR EMORY ARE CERTAIN, THINKS MR. LEE

DALTON, Ga., June 14.—Congressman Gordon Lee, of the Seventh district, a member of the board of trustees of Emory college, is of the opinion that the college will get intercollegiate athletics when the question again comes before the board of trustees. Mr. Lee was in the city Friday and while here discussed the matter with Emory alumni. He states that three members of the board, all of whom favored giving the students intercollegiate sports, were absent, and as the question was lost by but one vote their presence would have given a majority of two for athletics. The students asked for a short baseball schedule, intercollegiate tennis and track meets, a request was made for intercollegiate football.

"SEPTEMBER MORN" IN LOCAL ART STORE SHOCKS CITY POLICE

"That's real art, Chief. You can't beat that with any painting I've seen," said the chief.

"You're right there," said the chief. "Not even the Rex."

He pulled the short moustache and cleared his throat.

"Frais she'll have to come out, though," he declared. "Won't do to have respectable people having to face things like this on the street. You see, city ordinance 1762 would kill her in a minute. That's the one that says no painting nude figures or statues exhibited in public, you know."

"But, Chief," pleaded the manager, "this isn't disrespectful. This is art, y'know. Why, look at the Venus di Milo. Nobody ever kicked on her did they?"

The Chief swept him with a suspicious glance. "Don't know the lady," he growled.

UP TO THE CENSOR.

The manager cited other instances, he says, of the failure of the police to draw ogly lines to cubists, pointed out innumerable instances where clothing was a secondary consideration to the picture. But the chief finally decided the chief. "I'll take this thing up with Willis M. Everett, and see what he says about it. Mr. Everett is chairman of the board of moving picture censors for the Carnegie library."

Two hours later the chief walked up Whitehall street, beneath his arm September Morn. She was wrapped daintily in brown paper, for the chief didn't want to offend the eyes of even the lady unless she was somewhat better clad. A crowd followed the chief, they all knew what was under his arm, and the chief's face was a brick red.

Chief Jett went to see Mr. Everett, and in the opinion of the censor, September Morn must go. He declares that it is "high art," all right, but that it ought not to be shown in Atlanta.

The chief has finally decided the matter. The work of the Atlanta Art association. Most of them had not seen the reproductions of the famous painting, but they had to keep in order and intentions of looking at it during the afternoon.

One prominent society woman, who has requested that her name not be used, declares that the picture is a truly beautiful example of the best of art, and she ridicules the police for their attitude.

Frederick J. Paxon, prominent Atlanta artist, who has been active in police for paying any attention to the complaint of the indignant woman, who wants the picture taken from the window.

"Evil to him, who evil thinks," quoted Mr. Paxon, when asked for an expression of opinion.

"September Morn," he says, "is beautiful, exquisite, and a picture which I would be proud to place in any library or anywhere else in my house.

"If the police are going to try to stop the sale and display of beautiful and classic reproductions of 'September Morn,' Atlanta might as well go back 100 years or else it had better get a new police force.

"As to the complaining citizen, I can only say that to the evil all things are evil."

Mrs. Sam Inman, Mrs. E. W. Moore, Mrs. H. G. Scott and other leading members of the Atlanta Art association, when told of the matter, laughingly declare that members of the association are having a hard time fostering art in Atlanta.

UNDERPASS CLOSING DEPENDS ON CONSENT OF W. & A. RAILROAD

would not admit that it would be satisfactory or adequate.

The conference commenced at 10 o'clock and lasted until 1 o'clock. Members of the committee emphasized to the utmost the public necessity for closing the underpasses, on account of crowded traffic conditions, and very strongly urged Major McCollum to make concessions in the interest of the public convenience.

Among those present in behalf of the project were the following: Alderman Ragsdale, Captain Clayton, A. D. Greenfield, Councilman Kimbrough, Councilman Thomson, Samuel M. Inman, Captain James W. English, James R. Gray, Robert F. Maddox, Alderman Spratling, W. F. Winecoff, Councilman Ashley and Dr. Horace Grant.

RUSSIAN CABINET AND DUMA AT DAGGER POINTS

Ministers Are Insulted and "Leave Duma, Owing to Remarks of Reactionaries

ST. PETERSBURG, June 14.—A breach has been opened between the Russian government and the duma. Members of the cabinet announced today that neither the ministers nor the heads of departments will appear in the house "until conditions are established under which representatives of the government will be secure from insult by members of the duma."

The immediate cause of the decision was a remark made by M. Markoff, a reactionary member, during the debates on the estimates.

While the minister of finance was speaking, Markoff cried out: "Stealing cannot be tolerated." He added that his remark applied not only to the ministers of finance but to the officials of the various departments of state.

The ministers and officials left in a body.

Later at a meeting of the cabinet, the minister of the interior spoke strongly in favor of dissolution of the duma. He was outvoted, most of the ministers arguing that the conflicts between the cabinet and parliament are personal rather than political. Many of the ministers expressed the opinion that the quarrel would prove only temporary.

STATE OF GEORGIA, Fulton County:

Notice is hereby given that on June 30, 1913, or as soon thereafter as is practicable, the undersigned will apply to the judge of the superior court of Fulton county, Georgia, at the court house in said county, for an order authorizing him as guardian of Frances Barbee Pasquali, to sell for the purpose of reinvestment the following described real estate, to wit:

All that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the city of Atlanta, fronting fifty-two feet more or less on the east line of Forsyth street at the junction with Whitehall street, and running back to an alley parallel lines one hundred and forty-seven (147) feet and five (5) inches on the north line, long or upper line, being part of city lot three hundred and eighty-five (385) in the 14th district of said Fulton county, Georgia, and being the same property conveyed by Henry J. Smith by John W. Wallace, March 9, 1875, by deed recorded in book X, page 424 of said Fulton county records.

20 BRASS BANDS PARADE WITH MILITANT'S CORPSE

Miss Davison, Who Tried to Stop King's Horse, Mourned as "Martyr" to Cause

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 14.—Suffragettes, militant as well as non-militant, came from all parts of England today for the funeral of Miss Emiline Welding Davison, who met her death while interfering with the king's horse in the derby on June 4.

A special train brought the body of the "martwyrs" from Epsom to Victoria station, where a procession of 6,000 women was waiting to escort it across the city to St. George's church, Bloomsbury, where the service was held.

Crowds gathered early in the morning in the vicinity of the militant suffragette headquarters where the blinds were down and a huge banner hung at half mast. Many detachments of women arrived from the provinces to participate in the parade. They were dwressed in white with purple sashes. Twenty brass bands furnished the music for the procession.

There was a great display of banners, bearing such legends as "fight and God will give thee victory" or "unconquerable and not afraid."

The train bearing the coffin left Epsom station soon after 11 o'clock. The coffin was covered with a purple pall and was accompanied to London by Miss Davison's brother and a suffragette guard of honor.

The program arranged last night was for the funeral procession to pass through the main streets of London, between Victoria station and Bloomsbury. This morning the officials of Scotland yard suggested that the women should parade through the quieter side streets. The suffragette leaders became highly indignant and announced that they would pay no attention to the police. The possibilities of a collision thus seemed likely.

The funeral procession started from Victoria station at 2 o'clock. The coffin covered with flowers, was in an open hearse drawn by four black horses.

Enormous crowds surrounded the station, making progress difficult.

The parade was divided into eleven sections. The suffragettes marched in fours, all carrying flowers.

The coffin was in the middle of the procession and the clergy of St George's church, Bloomsbury, marched at the head. The rector of the church, Dr. Baumgarden, had issued a statement that he was not a sympathizer with the woman's militant tactics.

With the exception of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, who was rearrested today, and "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, who is ill, all the leaders of the militant organization occupied prominent places in the procession.

Owing to the dense throng the procession moved very slowly.

There was some slight booing here and there but the crowds were for the most part orderly and sympathetic.

A deal of confusion and commotion was caused by the report that the police would compel the leaders to proceed through secluded streets. There was no serious trouble, however.

Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst Taken Back to Prison

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, June 14.—Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst was arrested again today and taken to Holloweli jail.

She had been released on license on May 30, owing to ill health brought about by a "hunger strike" while she was serving her sentence of three years penal servitude.

Mrs. Pankhurst was leaving the house where she had been staying since her release, when two policemen arrested her. She was dressed in deep mourning and was on the way to attend the funeral of Miss Davison.

SPENT $20,000 A YEAR FOR THE BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

Henry T. Oxnard Tells Lobby Committee None Was Spent Illegally, However

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Henry T. Oxnard, the millionaire vice president of the American Beet Sugar company, testified today before the senate lobby committee that he estimated he had spent on an average of $20,000 a year in Washington for the last twenty-three years in behalf of the beet sugar industry.

He declared not a cent had been spent illegally. Each year when he was at his home in Washington, he declared, he came to the capitol to watch legislation and see his friends among the senators.

Senator Reed demanded that the witness give the name of senators who were his friends.

"Most all the senators," replied Mr. Oxnard.

"You need not include me in that list," declared Senator Reed.

"Well, I call Senator Overman one of my friends and Senator Cummins there and—I don't know how about Senator Nelson," said the witness.

Senator Overman promptly asked Mr. Oxnard if he had ever called upon him at his office or house or if he had ever attended Mr. Oxnard's entertainments.

Mr. Oxnard replied in the negative.

The committee adjourned until Monday without finishing the examination.

John H. Carroll, of St. Louis, attorney for the Hill system of railroads, was the first witness today in the lobby investigation. His only lobby activity, he said, was the filing of a brief for the Great Northern and Burlington roads, dealing with creosote oil.

"I want to say that the so-called Hill railroads have no one in Washington trying to influence legislation," said he.

Anselm Wold, the senate printing clerk, testified about the orders for printing "Sugar at a Glance," an anti-free sugar document prepared by Truman G. Palmer, representing beet sugar interests and circulated free under the franking privilege of Senator Lodge. The committee has developed testimony on whether Palmer was permitted to change the document after the senate had ordered it printed.

Turning to Senator Overman, Wold referred to a previous conversation about the incident and added:

"I told you then somebody had been monkeying with orders here and I still think so."

"An insidious lobbyist," who did not tell his name, was literally kicked out of the senate document room today.

"I'll help the president get rid of insidious lobbyists," was the exclamation of R. M. Cooper, assistant superintendent of the document room, as he booted a tall, recalcitrant man through the door.

The victim of the booting, who fled down the capitol steps, had been abusing employes because they did not furnish him with some printed documents relating to indigo tariff rates printed only for the finance committee.

Assistant Superintendent Cooper said he ordered him to leave this morning.

"He rushed into the room," said Cooper, "and threw his hand back toward his hip pocket. Then I kicked him into the hall. That's one way to handle such lobbyists."

Georgian Wins Suit

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 14.—G. L. Stevens, of Cassandra, Ga., was awarded a judgment of $200 against the Manufacturers, Merchants and Mechanics' Insurance company, of this city in Squire Eagar's court. The evidence produced by the defendants in the case tended to show that Stevens used a house over which the prosecution was being waged, as a barn and at the time the house was burned it was filled with hay. Stevens sought to recover $400, but Squire Eagar ruled that the house in question was overvalued.

DEMOCRATS ARE ELATED OVER TARIFF OUTLOOK

Clear Democratic Majority Predicted for Bill as It Comes From Caucus

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Administration leaders in the senate were in a jubilant mood today over prospects of the tariff bill. They unhesitatingly asserted that the party was ready for harmonious action and predicted that a clear Democratic majority for the measure as it comes from the caucus will not be endangered.

Admitting that the situation in the senate was anything but satisfactory when the bill passed the house, the leaders now contended that the prolonged preliminary consideration of the measure was brought about by an "ironing out of the rough places" in the party alignment and that every development has been in favor of administration policies.

Today the Democratic party began consideration of the sugar report.

There is evidence everywhere that the country wants quick action on this measure," said Senator Simmons. "I have realized it from the beginning. But it has been impossible to move faster and wisely up to this time."
